Seven Face Trial
In Bush Kidnaping;
May Arrest Others

F.B.I. Says Confession
Implicates 7 Others;
No Federal Law
Violation

Jackson, N. C., May 28 (AP)—The State of North Carolina, following up fast breaking developments in an attempted mob action against a young Negro here last Friday, today prepared to bring seven white men to trial on charges of kidnaping in the affair.

Names of the seven, arrested late last night, were withheld by authorities who hinted that there might be additional arrests and that disclosure of the names would interfere with the continuing investigation. The men, however, were released in bonds of $2,500 each.

A warrant for the seven, naming each of them on three counts, was issued at the office of Magistrate J. H. Boone, only a short distance from the Northampton county jail where an armed and masked band seized 24-year-old Godwin (Buddy) Bush shortly after he was arrested as a suspect in the alleged attempted rape of a young white stenographer in nearby Rich Square.

The developments last night followed closely an announcement by the F.B.I. in Washington that a confession had been obtained from one of the members of the mob and that he had implicated "seven other white persons." The F.B.I. reporting there was no indication of Federal law violation, said the information had been turned over to authorities in this Northampton North Carolina county.

The men, Solicitor Ernest Taylor said, are charged on three counts: 1—Conspiracy to break and enter a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush;

2—Breaking and entering a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush;

3—Kidnaping.

Bush, a sawmill worker, meanwhile is being held in Central Prison in Raleigh where he was rushed after surrendering himself to officers Sunday.

He gave himself up after making a bold break for freedom just after the mob whisked him from the jail. After making his getaway he hid without food for 48 hours in the dense pine forests surrounding this town.

News of the developments was greeted by Gov. R. Gregg Cherry of North Carolina with the statement, "I'm glad they're making some progress and I hope they'll get enough evidence to sustain convictions." Cherry previously had ordered every available member of the State Bureau of Investigation into the case.

Meanwhile, Bush, charged with attempted rape, was interviewed by Herman L. Taylor, Negro attorney. (Continued on Page Seven)

Millikin Expects Okay
on Income Tax Cut
by Tomorrow

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Senator Millikin (R-Colo.) said today he is "more hopeful than ever" that the Senate will approve the $4,000,000,000-a-year income tax cut by tomorrow night.

The finance committee chairman's optimism was reinforced by the margin with which the measure cleared its second big test late yesterday.

By the top-heavy tally of 51 to 29 the Senate defeated an amendment by Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) which would have granted husbands and wives in all states—the right to split their income in making out their tax returns.

R. P. I. Four-Year
Scholarship to
K. H. S. Student

Harry Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Barnhart of Stone Ridge, who is a member of this year's graduation class of Kingston High School, was awarded a four-year scholarship to Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute by the Alumni Association of that institution. Edward J. Wallin of Poughkeepsie, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, made the presentation at a dinner held Tuesday evening at the Hotel Staynesant.

Students in 52 high schools throughout Ulster, Dutchess, Sullivan and Orange counties participated and Mr. Wallin explained that the committee had a difficult time in making its final selection because of the very high standing of the candidates. Mr. Wallin asserted that engineering education furnishes a basis for a thorough education and he asked that the principals and guidance officers of the high schools in this area encourage the students to work toward a scholarship.

Carlton B. Fitchett of Poughkeepsie, president of the local R. P. I. Alumni Association, presided and introduced the guests, who included Jesse Barnhart and Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, and T. L. Culver, vice principal of Kingston High School. The local educators extended congratulations and expressed the profound appreciation of the faculty to the R. P. I. Alumni for his scholarship awards, which are considered the best in the country.

Louis R. Netter, managing editor of The Freeman, was the speaker.

Walter L. Fales, a fifty-year member of the R. P. I. Alumni Association, was among those in attendance, which included the following alumni:

T. Strong, Kingston, class of 1930.

E. J. Wallin, Poughkeepsie, class of 1922.

R. Alquist, Poughkeepsie, class of 1927.

F. Badger, Poughkeepsie, class of 1912.

E. Demarest, Rosendale, class of 1931.

C. Di Marzio, Poughkeepsie, class of 1933.

R. Carlson, Poughkeepsie, class of 1933.

C. Wade, Poughkeepsie, class of 1937.

S. Brinnier, Kingston, class of 1934.

J. McCullough, Kingston, class of 1943.

V. P. Salvatore, Jr., Highland, class of 1940.

H. Olson, Jr., Poughkeepsie, class of 1942.

LeRoy Parsons, Poughkeepsie, class of 1906.

C. C. Lewis, Kingston, class of 1923.

M. H. Millsap, Walden, class of 1922.

C. J. Wilkin, Wallkill, class of 1924.

W. L. Fales, Kingston, class of 1897.

Loses Two Motions

Plymouth, Mass., May 28 (AP)—Charles Russell Goodall lost two motions for a directed acquittal today as the all-male jury heard final evidence in the trial of the 26-year-old war veteran charged with murder in the sex-slaying of Ruth McGurk, 25, Cambridge vacationist at the Onset last summer.

Judge Lewis Goldberg denied both motions submitted by the defense—leaving only the final argument by counsel and his own charge before the case is put into the hands of the 12 men who will decide the fate of the boyish-faced Onset art student.

Kirkland Hotel
Will Change Hands
Middle of June

Has Been Under Egan
Management Since
1925; Innovations
Are Planned

The Kirkland Hotel located at 2 Main street, corner of Main and Clinton avenue, one of the best known family hotels in this section of the state will change hands on June 15 when the present owners and proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Egan, will close a contract of sale to Morris Budoff and William Dralman of Gloversville.

A substantial down payment on the contract price, which was not revealed, was made Tuesday at the real estate office of Frank S. Hyatt, 44 Main street, broker in the transaction. William H. Grogan was the attorney in the transaction representing both the sellers and the purchasers.

Mr. and Mrs. Egan have operated The Kirkland Hotel since August 1, 1925 when it was purchased from Mrs. Alice G. Saulpaugh. Under the management of Mr. Egan The Kirkland Hotel became widely known for its home atmosphere and was noted for its quiet, friendly surroundings and good food, which attracted many permanent guests as well as commercial men and transient guests. Centrally located with good restaurant facilities and convention facilities The Kirkland catered to the best clientele and was widely known.

The new owners will take possession on June 15 when title is closed and will be under the management of William Dralman assisted by Mrs. Budoff who has had considerable experience in that line. Mr. Budoff is a prominent Gloversville manufacturer.

Messrs. Budoff and Dralman plan to make improvements to the hotel and plan to operate a cocktail room, restaurant and carry on a general hotel business much the same as has been carried on by Mr. and Mrs. Egan.

Mr. Egan who entered the hotel business in 1897 as an employee at the old Commercial Hotel at Saratoga, plans to take a much needed rest and plans later to make a trip to San Diego, Calif., to visit a sister-in-law there.

From Saratoga Mr. Egan went to Schenectady where he became clerk at the Hotel Vendome later in 1900, going to the Wagner Inn at Canajoharie where he managed that hotel. The Wagner Inn is now the Beech-Nut Hotel. For 11 years Mr. Egan owned and operated the Stanwix Hotel at Chatham, and in 1925 purchased The Kirkland and since that time has been a resident of Kingston where he has always taken an active part in civic affairs.

Under Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, Mr. Egan was appointed a member of the Board of Public Works and is now serving in his third term, having been a member of that board for nearly 12 years.

During their residence in Kingston Mr. and Mrs. Egan have made many friends and Mr. Egan through his quiet, unassuming and kindly manner has become widely and favorably known throughout the city and surrounding area. In all civic affairs he has always taken an active part and has been intensely interested in any movement which would be for the betterment of the city.

The Kirkland Hotel was built about 43 years ago and has been conducted under the management of but three owners. Mrs. Charles Conklin who was the first owner and proprietor sold the hotel to Mrs. Saulpaugh who in turn sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Egan in 1925. The Kirkland is a frame hotel building, three stories in height and one of the attractions is the large porch which surrounds the hotel on Clinton avenue and Main street, always an attraction to guests in the summer season. The hotel appointments are modern with a large dining room located on the Main street side and a smaller private dining room used for small parties facing Clinton avenue.

Election Is

Nicaraguans Would Be

President Says; Asks

Tells of Coup

Arguello Is Accused of Demoting Guard
Officers

Managua, Nicaragua, May 28 (AP)—Gen. Anastasio Somoza, head of the army and former president, has promised the Nicaraguan people that a new election will be held soon to choose a successor to President Leonardo Arguello, which was forced out of office Monday in a bloodless early morning coup.

Somoza acknowledged his leadership of the stroke in an interview last night and blamed the coup d'etat on a plot to oust him from his post as jefe director (director-in-chief) of the National Guard. He said he had been marked for death.

Arguello, who has been given diplomatic asylum in the Mexican embassy, was elected— with Somoza's blessing—in balloting on February 2 and had held his office only 26 days. He succeeded Somoza, who had been chief of state for 10 years.

Congress, at a special session Monday night, declared Arguello "unfit" for the presidency and named the first presidential alternate, 60-year-old Benjamin Lacayo Sacasa acting president.

"The new president," said Gen. Somoza, "will convolve free elections and I believe it is a magnificent opportunity to choose a candidate in harmony with the combination of all the political parties."

Lacayo Sacasa issued a statement a short time later saying that a new election would be called "in due time."

"My only ambition," Somoza said, "is the internal tranquility and the cohesion of the army to the service of the constitution and the exterior prestige of Nicaragua."

Tells This Story

Somoza, in the course of the interview, told the following story of events leading up to the coup: Shortly after Arguello took the oath of office, the general said, he began to tamper with the National Guard, "which has for years kept peace in this country." Several high-ranking officers, he continued, were transferred to subordinate posts, among them Maj. Luis Somoza, the general's son. The chief of the Managua City police force also was removed and the new police chief said he had orders to refuse to accept orders from Somoza as jefe director.

The trend of events, the general went on, indicated that Arguello was trying to force Somoza out as "humiliate the front of the National Guard, which is loyal to me." Somoza said he tried to react.

Rain of Death May Eventuate
By A-Bomb in Storm Clouds

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Scientists are weighing the possibility of exploding an atomic bomb in the midst of storm clouds to create a literal rain of death.

The advantage of this technique, experts studying the plan told a reporter today, is that a city far inland could be drenched with radioactivity without the necessity of exploding a bomb under water, as was done in the Bikini experiments.

Until now, coastal cities or those near large rivers or lakes were the most probable targets for such type atomic bombing.

There is, however, a definite possibility that the very power and heat of the bomb might foil the plan.

Some scientists contend that a bomb exploded in a cloud bank might first blast the cloud away and then dissipate its moisture

Refrigeration Gas
Drives Tenants to Street on Broadway

Police Contact Mechanic to Remedy Condition
Shortly After Midnight

Tenants in the four apartments at 735 Broadway received quite a scare and a mild dose of refrigeration gas when a mechanical refrigerator unit serving the apartment developed a leak about 12:30 a. m. today.

All the occupants of the apartment were forced out into the street, while frantic efforts were made to locate a refrigeration expert who could shut off the leakage.

The police received a call shortly after midnight from a male tenant at that address stating that gas was leaking from a refrigerator unit that supplies the refrigeration for the four apartments at this address. The man said the gas was circulating at a fast rate and had forced everyone into the street.

The tenants tried several well-known refrigeration experts without success and could not contact the owner of the building. The police department contacted the fire department, and an emergency truck was sent to the scene.

Deputy Fire Chief James Brett investigated along with Officers Ken Hyatt and Leonard Ellsworth who were assigned by police headquarters. Meanwhile Acting Sergeant William Krum at police headquarters finally located Ralph Shultis of Josephine avenue. Mr. Shultis answered the call and in a few minutes he had repaired the trouble and the tenants were able to move back into their apartments for a not too comfortable night's sleep.

Police Official Says
Boy Admits Killing
All 4 Children of
Smith Family

Lapeer, Mich., May 28 (AP)—The fantastic story of a 16-year-old farm youth who admitted killing four playmates "because I wondered what it would feel like to put a bullet through a human being" was scheduled for court hearing today.

Oliver Terpening, Jr., a slim, solid youth, is charged with the flower patch murder Monday of 16-year-old Barbara Smith, his farm neighbor at Imlay City, about 20 miles from here.

State Police Commissioner Don S. Leonard said the boy also admitted killing Stanley Smith, her 14-year-old brother and his best friend, and her sisters Gladys, 12, and Janet, 2.

Captured in Toledo over the Ohio state border and returned yesterday to Michigan after a night of evading authorities, Terpening waited quietly in his jail cell here while Prosecutor Leslie Smith of Lapeer county went before Probate Judge Glenn C. Heinenbeck to seek a waiver of jurisdiction over the minor prisoner.

Then, Smith said, young Oliver was to appear before Justice of the Peace Robert H. Perkins. If Oliver waives examination, his appearance in circuit court before Judge George W. Edwards will be delayed at least until Monday.

Prosecutor Smith explained that "he's a minor, and we're afraid of that Supreme Court decision"—a recent ruling holding that extreme speed in trial and sentencing may limit justice.

Father Is Bewildered

Complete bewilderment over the brutal slaying came yesterday from the youth himself, his father, the medical examiner who questioned Oliver at Ensl Lansing before the boy was brought to the Lapeer jail.

"I don't know; I just don't know why I did it," Leonard quoted Oliver saying. His father, Le Moyne Snyder, state police medicolegal expert who questioned him could add only his exclamation, "I wish to God I knew what was wrong with him."

In composed, courteous tones, Oliver told the story of the killing. The officer said, he related calmly how he fired first at Stanley with the .22 calibre rifle he had been using to shoot frogs. A few minutes later he turned it on the three girls as they picked flowers, shooting the toddler because "he was old enough to talk," the officer quoted him as saying.

Won't Attend Funeral

Oliver faltered and dropped his dark, nose-cropped head in his hands as Leonard asked him if he wanted to attend the funeral of his "girl friend," Barbara, and her brother and two sisters.

"No, I never want to see them again," young Terpening said with tears in his eyes. "I would be afraid to face their family."

William E. Smith, 67-year-old father of the young victims, said he bore no "hatred" for the boy accused of taking his children's lives.

"I never hated any man in my life," he said. "I don't hate Oliver, or his family. That's the way I've always been. But in these United States there must be justice—justice for my children; justice for other children."

The elder Terpening was at a loss to explain the tragic shootings and could only repeat dazedly, "if he did this, I can't understand why."

He abandoned the car in Port Huron and hitchhiked south through Detroit, spending the night sleeping in a gas station near the state border. Crossing into Ohio in the morning, he was recognized by 15-year-old Norman Dombrosky, Jr., whose father offered him a ride and delivered the unrepentant youth to authorities.

No Specific Cause Found

Washington, May 28 (AP)—The Coast Guard reported today its investigation of the Texas City explosions failed to disclose any specific cause for the disaster. Samples of nitrate like that carried by the French vessel Grandcamp when it blew up April 16 did not explode when tested with rifle bullets, fire, oil, and contact with heated metal, the report said.

New York to Probe
Resale of New Cars

New York, May 28 (AP)—The city of New York has launched an investigation into an alleged practice of some used car dealers of buying new automobiles and reselling them as used cars at advanced prices. Benjamin Fielding, commissioner of licenses, announced today at a luncheon of the New York Used Car Dealers Association, Inc.

"If necessary," Fielding said, "I will subpoena the books and records of every suspected used car agency engaged in such improper and unethical trade practices which is a possible violation of both the administrative code and the rules and regulation of this department. The Department of Licenses will grant no amnesty to any used car dealer who is found guilty of violation of the law."

Paulson, Radtke

Ulster Restaurateurs Will Operate Catskill's New York Restaurant;
Opened in 1914

A Catskill real estate transaction involving more than $50,000 has been completed for the purchase of the New York Restaurant there by Gus S. Paulson of Kingston and Fred O. Radtke, of Saugerties, two well-known county restaurateurs.

Mr. Paulson told a Freeman reporter today that he and his recent partner in operating the Saugerties Diner planned extensive remodeling of the Catskill establishment, one of Green county's best known eating places for the past 33 years.

Sale of the restaurant to the two Ulster county men was made by M. A. Poulos, who opened it on October 20, 1914, and continued doing a successful business ever since, mainly with a staff that has been with him for almost 20 years.

Mr. Poulos plans to retire to his farm on the outskirts of Catskill village.

Although the place is well established, the new proprietors plan on spreading its fame as a first class eating place. "When we finish renovations," said Mr. Paulson, "our restaurant will be one of the nicest between Buffalo and New York. We'll specialize in all popular foods."

Radtko of 148 Main street, Saugerties, has had considerable experience as a restaurateur, having given up a 17-year position with the New York City postal department to run establishments in Long Island.

Mr. Paulson has had 36 years of restaurant experience in and around Ulster county. At present he resides at the Sea Grill, 11 Main street, in Kingston, having served Kingston Post, 150, as adjutant under the commandments of Stanley Dempsey and Jerry Martin.

Active in the 40 & 8 Society of the Legion, he is historian of that organization which he served as grand chemist for the Third State District.

During World War I, Mr. Paulson was with Company C, 345th Machine Gun Battalion, 90th Division, out of Texas.

During the Mexican border trouble in 1914, he served under General Rockman in army intelligence, acting as Spanish interpreter. Gus speaks five languages, English, Spanish, Arabian, Turkish and Greek.

Toured in Greece

Last year he spent four months touring his native Greece, which he said is in a poor economic state, with prices five or six times higher than in the United States for food and clothing. Only for U.N.R.R.A. and packages from America, "many people would starve," he said.

While in Greece he saw his brother, George, for the first in 41 years. He is superintendent of schools at Kilis, Macedonia. Gus has a sister he has never seen, Chrysoula, and a package from Georgeacopolis, commander of police in Athens.

Legionnaire Paulson said he intended to be as active in the service organization's affairs in Green county as he has been in Ulster, and hopes to be as loyal to Catskill Post as Mr. Poulos, who is a past commander.

Walter J. Miller, Kingston attorney, represented Messrs. Paulson and Radtke in the realty transaction and Mr. Poulos' attorney was Capt. P. H. Decker of Catskill.

Hoover Says Treaties
Necessary to Restore
Enterprise

Washington, May 25 (AP)—Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the House Appropriations Committee declared today the administration should accept "immediately" Herbert Hoover's suggestion that this country write its own peace treaties with Germany and Japan. "It's perfectly apparent the administration has let things get out of hand," Taber told reporters after observing that American financial commitments abroad between now and July 1, 1948, will amount to close to $5,000,000,000 if pending legislation is passed in its present form.

Declining to suggest a deadline for getting Russia's agreement to speed big-power treaty making, the New York lawmaker contended: "The more we fool around with it, the more we get involved in international hand-outs."

Taber's opinion was advanced against the background of a two-hour private huddle between Hoover and an Appropriations Subcommittee at that meeting yesterday. The former Republican Chief Executive expressed his approval of a $725,000,000 army appropriation request for civilian relief in Germany, Austria, Korea and Japan.

It probably will be at least a week or 10 days before the subcommittee completes its review of the army's "civil functions" financial needs, including the relief program in the occupied zones. As did Hoover himself, Taber took the position that United States relief problems will remain unsettled unless and until formal peace pacts have been written with the major Axis powers.

Treaties Are Necessary

Taber said the treaties are necessary to restore German and Japanese enterprise along with efficiency for their own recovery because, he added, neither country will use any initiative until it knows what its future is to be.

Hoover touched on a similar point in talking with newsmen after the committee meeting. Here is Taber's compilation of American commitments abroad, either made or pending:

Civilian relief in occupation zones, $725,000,000; Foreign relief in Italy, Greece, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Trieste and China, $350,000,000; Greek-Turkish aid program, $400,000,000; Special Korean aid program, $78,000,000; Participation in the International Refugee Organization, $73,000,000.

On top of this, Taber piled $850,000,000 as the 1948 cost of the Export-Import Bank program; $1,200,000,000 put into the World Bank; and $1,200,000,000 as the amount Britain is likely to draw from the credit it was voted last year.

To a reporter's observation that some of these figures were loans approved on the assumption they would be repaid, Taber snorted: "Whose theory is that?"

Seven Face Trial
In Bush Kidnaping;
May Arrest Others

F.B.I. Says Confession
Implicates 7 Others;
No Federal Law
Violation

Jackson, N. C., May 28 (P)—The State of North Carolina, following up fast breaking developments in attempted mob action against a young Negro here last Friday, today prepared to bring seven white men to trial on charges of kidnaping in the affair.

Names of the seven, arrested late last night, were withheld by authorities who hinted that there might be additional arrests and that disclosure of the names would interfere with the continuing investigation. The men, however, were released in bonds of $2,500 each.

A warrant for the seven, naming each of them on three counts, was issued at the office of Magistrate J. H. Boone, only a short distance from the Northampton county jail where an armed and masked band seized 24-year-old Godwin (Buddy) Bush shortly after he was arrested as a suspect in the alleged attempted rape of a young white stenographer in nearby Rich Square.

The developments last night followed closely an announcement by the F.B.I. in Washington that a confession had been obtained from one of the members of the mob and that he had implicated "seven other white persons." The F.B.I. reporting there was no indication of Federal law violation, said the information had been turned over to authorities in this Northampton North Carolina county.

The men, Solicitor Ernest Tyler said, are charged on three counts: 1—Conspiracy to break and enter a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush; 2—Kidnaping.

3—A sawmill worker, meanwhile is being held in Central Prison in Raleigh where he was rushed over to authorities in this Northampton North Carolina county.

He gave himself up after making a bold break for freedom just after the mob whisked him from the jail. After making his getaway he hid without food for 48 hours in the dense pine forests surrounding this town.

News of the developments was greeted by Gov. R. Gregg Cherry of North Carolina with the statement, "I'm glad they're making some progress. * * * and I hope they'll get enough evidence to sustain convictions." Cherry previously had ordered every available member of the State Bureau of Investigation into the case.

Meanwhile, Bush, charged with attempted rape, was interviewed by Herman L. Taylor, Negro attorney.

Washington, May 28 (P)—Senator Millikin (R-Colo.) said today he is "more hopeful than ever" that the Senate will approve the $4,000,000,000-a-year income tax cut by tomorrow night.

The finance committee chairman's optimism was reinforced by the margin with which the measure cleared its second big test late yesterday.

Harry Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Barnhart of Stone Ridge, who is a member of this year's graduation class of Kingston High School, was awarded a four-year scholarship to Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute by the Alumni Association of that institution. Edward J. Wallin of Poughkeepsie, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, made the presentation at a dinner held Tuesday evening at the Hotel Tuxedo.

Students in 52 high schools throughout Ulster, Dutchess, Sullivan and Orange counties participated and Mr. Wallin explained that the committee had a difficult time in making its final selection because of the very high standing of the candidates. Mr. Wallin asserted that engineering education furnishes a basis for a thorough education and he asked that the principals and guidance officers of the high schools in the area encourage the students to work toward a scholarship.

Carlton B. Fitchett of Poughkeepsie, president of the local R. P. I. Alumni Association, presided and introduced the guests, who included Jesse Barnhart and Arthur J. Laudlaw, superintendent of schools, and T. L. Culver, vice principal of Kingston High School. The local educators extended congratulations and expressed the profound appreciation of the faculty to the R. P. I. Alumni for its scholarship awards, which are considered the best in the country.

Louis R. Netter, managing editor of The Freeman, was the speaker.

Loses Two Motions

Plymouth, Mass., May 28 (P)—Charles Russell Goodale lost two motions for a directed acquittal today as the all-male jury heard final evidence in the trial of the 26-year-old war veteran charged with murder in the sex-slaying of Ruth McGurk, 25, Cambridge vacationist at the Onset last summer. Judge Lewis Goldberg denied both motions submitted by the defense—leaving only the final argument by counsel and his own charge before the case is put into the hands of the 12 men who will decide the fate of the boyish-faced Onset art student.

Kirkland Hotel
Will Change Hands
Middle of June

Has Been Under Egan
Management Since
1925; Innovations
Are Planned

The Kirkland Hotel located at 2 Main street, corner of Main and Clinton avenue, one of the best known family hotels in this section of the state will change hands on June 15 when the present owners and proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Egan, will close a contract of sale to Morris Budoff and William Draiman of Gloversville.

A substantial down payment on the contract price, which was not revealed, was made Tuesday at the real estate office of Frank S. Hyatt, 44 Main street, broker in the transaction. William H. Grogan was the attorney in the transaction representing both the sellers and the purchasers.

Mr. and Mrs. Egan have operated the Kirkland Hotel since August 1, 1925 when it was purchased from Mrs. Alice C. Saulpaugh. Under the management of Mr. Egan the Kirkland Hotel became widely known for its home atmosphere and was noted for its quiet, friendly surroundings and good food, which attracted many permanent guests as well as commercial men and transient guests. Centrally located with good restaurant facilities and convention facilities The Kirkland catered to the best clientele and was widely known.

The new owners will take possession on June 15 when the hotel is closed and will be under the management of William Draiman assisted by Mrs. Budoff who has had considerable experience in that line. Mr. Budoff is a prominent Gloversville manufacturer.

Messrs. Budoff and Draiman plan to make improvements to the hotel and plan to operate a cocktail room, restaurant and carry on a general hotel business much like that which has been carried on by Mr. and Mrs. Egan.

Mr. Egan who entered the hotel business in 1897 as an employee at the old Commercial Hotel at Saratoga, plans to take a much needed rest and plans later to make a trip to San Diego, Calif., to visit a sister-in-law there.

From Saratoga Mr. Egan went to Schenectady where he became clerk at the Hotel Vendome, later in 1900 going to the Wagner Hotel in Canajoharie where he managed that hotel. The Wagner Inn is now the Beech-Nut Hotel. For 11 years Mr. Egan owned and operated the Stanwick Hotel at Chatham, and in 1925 purchased The Kirkland and since that time has been a resident of Kingston where he has always taken an active part in civic affairs.

Under Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, Mr. Egan was appointed a member of the Board of Public Works and is now serving in his third term, having been a member of that board for nearly 12 years.

During their residence in Kingston Mr. and Mrs. Egan have made many friends and Mr. Egan through his quiet, unassuming and kindly manner has become widely and favorably known throughout the city and surrounding area. In all civic affairs he has always taken an active part and has been intensely interested in any movement which would be for the betterment of the city.

The Kirkland Hotel was built about 43 years ago and has been conducted under the management of but three owners. Mrs. Charles Conklin who was the first owner and proprietor sold the hotel to Mr. Saulpaugh who in turn sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Egan in 1925.

The Kirkland is a frame hotel building, three stories in height and one of the attractions is the large porch which surrounds the hotel on Clinton avenue and Main street, always an attraction to guests in the summer season. The hotel appointments are modern with a large dining room located on the Main street side and a smaller private dining room used for small parties facing Clinton avenue.

Nicaraguans Would Be

President Says; Asks

Tells of Coup

Arguello Is Accused
of Demoting Guard
Officers

Managua, Nicaragua, May 28 (P)—Gen. Anastasio Somoza, head of the army and former president, has promised the Nicaraguan people that a new election will be held soon to choose a successor to President Leonardo Arguello, which was forced out of office Monday in a bloodless early morning coup.

Somoza acknowledged his leadership of the stroke in an interview last night and blamed the coup d'état on a plot to oust him from his post as jefe director (director-in-chief) of the National Guard. He said he had been marked for death.

Arguello, who has been given diplomatic asylum in the Mexican embassy, was deposed with Somoza's blessing—in balloting on February 2 and had held his office only 26 days. He succeeded Somoza, who had been chief of state for 10 years.

Congress, at a special session Monday night, declared Arguello "unfit" for the presidency and named the first presidential alternate, 60-year-old Benjamin Lacayo Sacasa acting president.

"The new president," said Gen. Somoza, "will convolve free elections and I believe it is a magnificent opportunity to choose a candidate in harmony with the combination of all the political parties."

Lacayo Sacasa issued a statement a short time later saying that a new election would be called "in due time."

"My only ambition," Somoza said, "is the internal tranquility and the cohesion of the army to the service of the constitution and the exterior prestige of Nicaragua."

Tells This Story

Somoza, in the course of the interview, told the following story of events leading up to the coup: Shortly after Arguello took the oath of office, the general said, he began to tamper with the National Guard, "which has for years kept peace in this country." Several high-ranking officers, he continued, were transferred to subordinate posts among them Maj. Luis Somoza, the general's son. The chief of the Managua City police force also was removed and the new police chief said he had orders to refuse to accept orders from Somoza as jefe director.

The trend of events, the general went on, indicated that Arguello was trying to force Somoza out and "humiliate me in front of the National Guard, which is loyal to me." Somoza said he tried to reason.

Because of the United States Department of Agriculture budget cuts recommended by the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee, it has become necessary to at once take the following action:

1. No further application for assistance in the 1947 Agricultural Conservation program may be made.

Rain of Death May Eventuate
By A-Bomb in Storm Clouds

Washington, May 28 (P)—Scientists are weighing the possibility of exploding an atomic bomb in the midst of storm clouds to create a literal rain of death.

The advantage of this technique, experts studying the plan told a reporter today, is that a city far inland could be drenched with radioactivity without the necessity of exploding a bomb under water, as was done in the Bikini experiments.

Until now, coastal cities or those near large rivers or lakes were the most probable targets for such type atomic bombing. There is, however, a definite possibility that the very power and heat of the bomb might foil the plan.

Some scientists contend that a bomb exploded in a cloud bank might first blast the cloud away and then dissipate its moisture

Shortly After Midnight

Tenants in the four apartments at 735 Broadway received quite a scare and a mild dose of refrigeration gas when a mechanical refrigeration unit serving the apartment developed a leak about 12:30 a. m. today.

All the occupants of the apartment were forced out into the street, while frantic efforts were made to locate a refrigeration expert who could shut off the leakage.

The police received a call shortly after midnight from a male tenant at that address stating that gas was leaking from a refrigeration unit that supplies the refrigeration for the four apartments at this address. The man said the gas was circulating at a fast rate and had forced everyone into the street.

The tenants tried several well known refrigeration experts without success and could not contact the owner of the building. The police department and an emergency truck was sent to the scene.

Deputy Fire Chief James Brett investigated along with Officers Ken Hyatt and Leonard Ellsworth who were assigned by police headquarters finally located Ralph Shults of Josephine avenue. Mr. Shults answered the call and in a few minutes he had repaired the trouble and the tenants were able to move back into their apartments for a not too comfortable night's sleep.

Police Official Says
Boy Admits Killing
All 4 Children of
Smith Family

Lapeer, Mich., May 28 (P)—The fantastic story of a 16-year-old farm youth who admitted killing four playmates "because I wondered what it would feel like to put a bullet through a human being" was scheduled for court hearing today.

Oliver Terpening, Jr., a slim, stolid youth, is charged with the flower patch murder Monday of 16-year-old Barbara Smith, his farm neighbor at Imlay City, about 20 miles from here.

State Police Commissioner Don S. Leonard said the boy also admitted killing Stanley Smith, her 14-year-old brother and his best chum, and her sisters Gladys, 12, and Janet, 2.

Captured in Toledo over the Ohio state border and returned yesterday to Michigan after a night of evading authorities, Terpening waited quietly in his jail cell here while Prosecutor Leslie Smith of Lapeer county went before Probate Judge Glenn C. Hollenbeck to seek a waiver of jurisdiction over the minor prisoner.

Then, Smith said, young Oliver was to appear before Justice of the Peace Robert H. Perkins. If Oliver waives examination, his appearance in circuit court before Judge George W. DesJardins will be delayed at least until Monday.

Prosecutor Smith explained that "he's a minor, and we're afraid of that Supreme Court decision"—a recent ruling holding that extreme pressure in trial and sentencing may limit justice.

Father Is Bewildered

Complete bewilderment over the brutal slaying came yesterday from the youth himself, his father, parents of the victims and even the medical examiner who questioned Oliver at East Lansing before the boy was brought to the Lapeer jail.

"I don't know. I just don't know why I did it," Leonard quoted Oliver as saying, and Dr. Le Moyne Snyder, state police medico-legal expert who questioned him could only say his explanation, "I wish to God I knew what was wrong with him."

In composed, courteous tones, Oliver told the story of the killing Leonard related.

The officer said, he related calmly how he fired first at Stanley with the .22 calibre rifle he had been using to shoot frogs. A few minutes later he turned it on the three girls as they picked flowers, shooting the toddler because "she was old enough to talk," the officer quoted him as saying.

Won't Attend Funeral

Oliver faltered and dropped his dark, close-cropped head in his hands when Leonard asked him if he wanted to attend the funeral of his "girl friend," Barbara, and her brother and two sisters.

"No, I never want to see them again," young Terpening said with tears in his eyes. "I would be afraid to face their family."

William B. Smith, 67-year-old father of the young victims, said he bore no "hatred" for the boy accused of taking his children's lives.

"I never hated any man in my life," he said. "I don't hate Oliver, or his family. That's the way I've always been. But in these United States there must be justice—justice for my children; justice for other children."

The elder Terpening was at a loss to explain the tragic shootings and could only repeat dazedly, "if he did this, I can't understand why."

Young Oliver left his father's farm in the family car Monday evening shortly before Ella May Smith, 19-year-old sister of the victims, founded the bodies.

He abandoned the car in Port Huron and hitchhiked south through Detroit, spending the night sleeping in a gas station near the state border. Crossing into Ohio in the morning, he was recognized by 15-year-old Norman Ambrosky, Jr., whose father offered him a ride and delivered the unrepentant youth to authorities.

No Specific Cause Found

Washington, May 28 (P)—The Coast Guard reported today its investigation of the Texas City explosion failed to disclose any specific cause for the disaster. Samples of nitrate like that carried by the French vessel Grand camp when it blew up April 16 did not explode when tested with rifle bullets, fire, oil, and contact with heated metal, the report said.

New York to Probe
Resale of New Cars

New York, May 28 (P)—The city of New York has launched an investigation into an alleged practice of some used car dealers of buying new automobiles and reselling them as used cars at advanced prices, Benjamin Fielding, commissioner of licenses, announced today at a luncheon of the New York Used Car Dealers Association, Inc.

"If necessary," Fielding said, "I will subpoena the books and records of every suspected used car agency engaged in such improper and unethical trade practices which is in possible violation of both the administrative code and the rules and regulation of this department."

"The Department of Licenses will grant no amnesty to any used car dealer who is found guilty of violation of the law."

Paulson, Radtke
Buy Restaurant;

Ulster Restaurateurs Will Operate Catskill's New
York Restaurant;
Opened in 1914

A Catskill real estate transaction involving more than $50,000 has been completed for the purchase of the New York Restaurant there by Gus S. Paulson of Kingston and Fred O. Radtke, of Saugerties, two well-known county restaurateurs.

Mr. Paulson told a Freeman reporter today that he and his recent partner in operating the Saugerties Diner planned extensive remodeling of the Catskill establishment, one of Green county's best known eating places for the past 33 years.

Sale of the restaurant to the two Ulster county men was made by M. A. Poulos, who opened it on the outskirts of Catskill village.

Although the place is well established, the new proprietors plan on spreading its fame as a first class eating place. "When we finish renovations," said Mr. Paulson, "our restaurant will be one of the best in the Ulster county."

Mr. Radtke of 148 Main street, Saugerties, has had considerable experience as a restaurateur, having given up a 17-year position with the New York city postal department to run establishments in Long Island.

Mr. Paulson has had 36 years of restaurant experience in and around Ulster county. At present he resides at the Sea Grill, 11 Main street. He is prominent in the Ulster county affairs, having served Kingston Post, 150, as adjutant under the commandments of Stanley Dempsey and Jerry Martin.

Active in the 40 & 8 Society of the Legion, he is historian of that organization which he served as grand chemist for the Third State District.

During World War I, Mr. Paulson was with Company C, 345th Machine Gun Battalion, 90th Division, out of Texas.

During the Mexican border trouble in 1914 he served under General Rockman in army intelligence, acting as Spanish interpreter. Gus speaks five languages, English, Spanish, Arabian, Turkish and Greek.

Toured in Greece
Last year he spent four months touring his native Greece, which he said is in a poor economic state, with prices five or six times higher than in the United States on food and clothing. "Only for U.N.R.R.A. and packages from America," many people would starve," he said.

While in Greece he saw his brother, George, for the first in 41 years. He is superintendent of schools at Kilkis, Macedonia. Gus met a sister he had never seen, Chrysoula, wife of Capt. P. Georgacopoulos, commander of police in Athens.

Legionnaire Paulson said he intended to be as active in the service organization's affairs in Ulster county as he has been in Ulster, and hopes to be as loyal to Catskill Post as Mr. Poulos, who is a past commander.

Walter J. Miller, Kingston attorney, represented Messrs. Paulson and Radtke in the realty transaction and Mr. Poulos' attorney was Capt. P. H. Decker of Catskill.

Hoover Says Treaties
Necessary to Restore
Enterprise

Washington, May 25 (P)—Chairman Taber (R-N.Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee declared today the administration should accept "immediately" Herbert Hoover's suggestion that this country write its own peace treaties with Germany and Japan.

"It's perfectly apparent the administration has let things get out of hand," Taber told reporters after observing that American financial commitments abroad between now and July 1, 1948, will amount to close to $5,000,000,000 if pending legislation is passed in its present form.

Declining to suggest a deadline for getting Russia's agreement to speed big-power treaty making, the New York lawmaker contended: "The more we get around with it, the more we feel involved in international hand-outs."

Taber's opinion was advanced against the background of a two-hour private huddle between Hoover and an Appropriations Subcommittee. At that meeting yesterday the former Republican Chief Executive expressed his approval of a $725,000,000 appropriation request for civilian relief in Germany, Austria, Korea and Japan.

It probably will be at least a week or 10 days before the subcommittee completes its review of the army's "civil functions" financial needs, including the relief program in the occupied zones.

As did Hoover himself, Taber took the position that United States relief problems will remain unsettled unless and until normal peace pacts have been worked out with the major Axis powers.

Treaties are Necessary
Taber said the treaties are necessary to restore German and Japanese enterprise along with efficiency for their own recovery because, he added, neither country will use any initiative until it knows what its future is to be.

Hoover, speaking on a similar point in talking with newsmen after the committee meeting.

Here is Taber's compilation of American commitments abroad, either made or pending:

Civilian relief in occupation zones, $725,000,000; Foreign relief in Italy, Greece, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Trieste and China, $350,000,000; Greek-Turkish aid program, $400,000,000; Special Korean aid program, $78,000,000; Participation in the International Refugee Organization, $73,000,000.

In top of this, Taber piled $850,000,000 as the 1948 cost of the Export-Import Bank program; $1,200,000,000 put into the World Bank; and $1,200,000,000 as the amount Britain is likely to draw from the credit it was voted last year.

To a reporter's observation that some of these figures were loans approved on the assumption they would be repaid, Taber snorted: "Whose theory is that?"

Strike Is Averted

Cold, Dry Storage Plants
Will Not Be Closed;
Agreement Made

New York, May 28 (P)—A threatened strike which would have tied up 43 cold and dry storage warehouses which handle huge amounts of the metropolitan area's food and merchandise has been averted.

State Mediator Benjamin Roberts announced late yesterday that two A.F.L. Teamster Union locals with 2,400 members, Local 818 in New York and 617 in New Jersey, and the Cold Storage and Warehousemen's Association and the Inland Dry Storage Warehousemen of the Port of New York, had agreed on a $9 weekly across-the-board wage increase.

Roberts said the increase would provide a minimum of $56 for cold storage workers and $54 for dry storage workers. The agreement is subject to ratification by the union membership.

Carelessness Lets

In Many Contracts

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

There are a lot of little tricks in the play of the cards that the average player either misses through carelessness or just does not bother to remember. Lee Hazen of New York brought to-day's hand to my attention, and with the South cards, six hearts certainly is not a bad contract. Most declarers in a duplicate game at the New York Bridge Whist Club made the contract, but only because of careless defense.

The opening lead was won by South with the king. Two rounds of trumps were led, West showing out on the second round.

Now declarer led the ten of spades, West played the seven and dummy the queen. This is where most of the East players went wrong. They won the trick with the ace. If East had stopped to think, he would have realized that the three of spades was missing and that his partner was starting an echo, attempting to show that he had only two spades. Or his partner might have a singleton spade, but as he had shown out of trumps, there was no use in winning the first spade trick to give his partner a ruff.

All East had to do was to refuse to win the first spade. When the king of spades was led, East should win that trick, as declarer, holding three spades to the jack-ten, would not have led the king.

This is a play that comes up quite often, and it is an excellent idea to form the habit of telling your partner whether you have two or three of a suit. If you play the small one, you have either a singleton or three. If you play the high one, you have either a singleton or two.

There Will Be Light

Schenectady, N. Mathematical computations will determine how each of the 1,120 lights is to be set and angled for maximum efficiency. The installation will require two days of working from a master chart, instead of five nights of trial-and-error adjustments, the company said. The Red Sox will begin playing night baseball at Fenway Park early next month.

SHOKAN

Shokan, May 28.—The qualified voters of Olive School District No. 3 who turned out for the special meeting in the Shokan schoolhouse Friday evening elected Emerich Lukacs to fill out the unexpired term caused by the resignation of Miss Ann Ingalls. Mr. Lukacs at the regular annual meeting early in May had been elected as trustee for the school year beginning July 1.

July 1. It was revealed at Friday's meeting that the voters favored the hiring of Ada Lukacs as teacher of the local school. Mrs. Lukacs, who is now teaching in New York City, has had her credentials approved by the state educational authorities in Albany.

Mrs. Bautista Nadul is again at her farm home in the Coons neighborhood of Shokan.

Farmers expect an early hay season this year. The grass in some places is already heading out which is quite unusual for late May.

Merlin ("Dutch") DuBois, war veteran and former Ashokan ball player, was a caller in the village Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. DuBois now have their own home at Glenford Heights and the exchange is employed as driver for a Kingston asphalt concern.

Our Old Timer finds it increasingly difficult to keep posted on the many new names and faces in the twin villages. "Used to be," he says, "that a fellow knew everybody for miles around but nowadays he can hardly keep track of his near neighbors."

May 24, 1907, funeral services were held in the old village for

James Millard Eckert, mason and plasterer and the cymbals player in the Shokan cornet band. Mr. Eckert, whose small farm lay further down the West Butterkill from Homer Markle's place, was survived by his wife, Helen E. (Stoutenburgh) Eckert, and two children, Herman and Etta. He was an uncle of Charles Eckert, Krumville road farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weisenstein, newcomers to the village, have opened a restaurant at their place on the reservoir road. They plan to add a life of refreshments during the summer season.

Good crops of all small fruits and early apples are indicated by the heavy load of blossoms on these trees. Of the winter apple trees, the Northwestern greenings are making the best showing, with Baldwins and other standard varieties in full bloom and promising a heavier set than was the case last year. Strawberries on the Greene fruit farm are in blossom and all wild berries will come on early this season.

Several excellent catches of pike have been made in the Ashokan with live bait as a lure. The big trout continue rather reluctant about striking but a few fishermen have found inspiration for a good yarn to pass along to their friends. Wolfgang Adels, Ashokan awnings maker and ex-serviceman, has been active down in the big ponds, with results a mixture of the bitter and the sweet. The youthful sportsman writes the column as follows: "Had pretty good luck (at fishing); landed three nice 21-inch rainbow trout and one nice pike. Of these, lost three and got one backer (sort of a hybrid pike) as a lure. The fishing was good and I think I was just plain lucky. If I should get a mess like that again it will be a coincidence. In fact I might never land another trout. Last year caught six pike and one 25-inch Georgian Brown trout at the same spot. I landed my fish this season, I used night walkers."

The United States has approximately 4,000,000 sets of twins.

Radio Actress Dies
In Gas-Filled Rooms

New York, May 28 (AP)—A 21-year-old red-haired radio actress, Twila Phillips, was found dead in the gas-filled Manhattan apartment of a radio announcer when he returned home late last night, police said.

"I never really knew you loved me. I loved you very much," read a pencilled note which police said the girl had written. The note also said she had been depressed lately.

Police quoted Charles Richard Stark, the announcer, as saying Miss Phillips appeared in good spirits when he saw her at the apartment at 9 a. m., yesterday. He said he had known her about a year.

Upon his return, Stark smelled gas and Bruce Butfield, the building superintendent, forced the locked door of the apartment kitchen. Police said the girl lay on the floor and four jets of a gas range were open. An ambulance attendant pronounced the actress dead.

Stark shares the apartment with his brother, William. A Hawaiian pineapple company uses a 100,000-gallon water tank, shaped like a pineapple, on its Honolulu plantation.

Policy as Any Other Nation

Milwaukee, May 28 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said last night that the United States must be just as willing to work for its beliefs as "any other nation in the world" and replied simply "no" to a suggestion that Henry Wallace be named ambassador to Russia.

Following a speech before the Milwaukee Advertising Club, the wife of the late president was asked, "Doesn't the 'get tough' policy (with Russia) invite a reciprocal 'get tough' policy?"

Mrs. Roosevelt replied, "What we believe in we must believe in just as fanatically, and we must be just as willing to work for as any other nation in the world."

She asserted a "favorite" Communist maneuver was to delay and wait until opponents had gone home exhausted and added that the proper counter-maneuver was to stand firm in one's beliefs "because the principles we believe in."

not because we don't like the people on the other side," Mrs. Roosevelt said. The Russians distrust the United States because we have the greater force and "they are maneuvering very hard to get that force, which we aren't stupid enough to give them at the present time."

To a floor suggestion that former Vice-President Wallace be named ambassador to Russia, Mrs. Roosevelt said "no."

MANN ON GERMANY

Thomas Mann, world renowned author, who left his native Germany in 1933 in protest against Hitlerism, spoke in London recently on Germany's future. He suggested that huge training camps for German teachers be set up in British-American zones. These properly trained instructors could then go out to handle German youth, bringing to them cultural and democratic fare. This Germany badly needs, Mann pointed out, since all her cultural and economic resources have been concentrated on a "barbaric regime" since 1933. The present division of the country into occupational zones makes it hard for Germans to understand the basic philosophies of individual freedom held by the allies.

In all views of the German problem, two matters are invariably emphasized: first, the need for wholesale teacher-re-education in order to raise a new crop of youth trained in democratic ways of thinking; second, the difficulty resulting from the occupational zoning of the country. There is evidence that Americans, British and French are more and more breaking down their zonal barriers, but Russia's remains ironbound by itself. Nevertheless, education must be pushed in the three western areas, and that section must be trained as rapidly as possible to democracy. It is not easy to do this, nor can it be done rapidly. It will take much time and greater patience. That is all the more reason for enlarging the beginnings already made in giving the young Germany of today a sound foundation.

LOST CHILDREN

One of the most human things about little boys and girls is their tendency to wander away from home when spring comes, thereby often getting lost and causing their parents and friends much needless trouble. An observer suggests what may be at least a partial remedy. He finds some kind of attractive adornment which the other youngsters haven't got, and which they are therefore proud to wear, and pins it on so conspicuously that it isn't likely to come off. Thus the child is more easily traced and identified.

Less conspicuous but quite useful is a tag with name and address fastened on the back of the clothing where it cannot easily be dislodged. Teaching the small fry to state their name, father's name and address, when asked, is also a good idea.

LONG LENDING PROGRAM

Speaking in Jefferson, Iowa, at a UN celebration, Harold E. Stassen, avowed Republican presidential aspirant, suggested that the United States lend ten per cent of its resources to the world. The loan program, which would include food, would last for ten years. Its aim would be the building of world peace, plenty and freedom. He believes this country should not expect payment in kind, but should administer the program. It should not be directed at anyone, and of course should not include armament.

These ideas are from a man who has visited many foreign nations. What he has to say now that he is home is significant, and the more so because he may possibly be nominated for president. It does no harm, in any event, for the American people to weigh proposals like this of solutions to the international confusion. No one can tell when the germ of a really good idea may be born.

RETAIL REVOLUTION

Progress which covers a long period of years often goes unrecognized. It is simply taken for granted. The changes which business evolution has brought to typical retail stores is a case in point. Anyone who is able to remember the cracker-barrel grocery store of a generation ago will recognize the vast improvements which have taken place. There is no comparison between then and now in such matters as conveniences, sanitation, arrangement, abundance and variety of stocks and display and handling methods. Like practically all progress in a free economy, this is the result of the competitive system. Competition goes far beyond physical attributes of retail establishments, and takes in such varied fields as price, special services, employee courtesy and so on. Advertising is employed in the newspapers more and more extensively. Every merchant constantly seeks to outdo the man next door.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

HOW MUCH?

The argument against the British loan when it was proposed here was that Great Britain could not solve her internal economic problems by borrowing $3,750,000,000 here. It was said then that the British problem was to produce goods, to get more work out of British labor, to end feather-bedding there, to apply the most efficient methods of management and engineering. It was said by the opponents of the loan that Britain would be tempted to use the dollars of the loan to accumulate consumer's good instead of capital and durable goods and that therefore when the loan was used up, Britain would have nothing to show for the money borrowed. In other words, Great Britain would have to come to this country for more.

That is exactly what has happened. The Socialist government of Great Britain has been unable to mobilize British labor for increased production. When this government came into power, the British worker apparently assumed that Utopia had arrived. Why work? The government guaranteed subsistence from the cradle to the grave anyhow? Nationalization, the hope of the Socialists, did not increase efficiency. In a comparative low wage country, the difference in income between those who do work and those who do not work is not sufficiently large to encourage working. Besides, the entire theory of British trade unionism has always been to limit the production of the individual worker. Feather-bedding is no new doctrine in that country, equality being recognized as the leveling of the efficient and the incompetent to the productivity of the average worker.

"New Dealism" has been a costly concept in England. It is a restriction on the use of improved machinery, on labor-saving devices, on new techniques which result in greater production. The result is that Britain is behind this country, and even some of the smaller industrial countries, in the use of the most modern types of machinery and of managerial techniques.

British capitalists responded to the Labour Government altogether differently. They did not believe that Utopia had arrived; rather they accepted Hell on Earth. They accepted monopoly and cartelization as their only hope. They assumed that the United States would see Britain through until the British people came to their senses. But no hopeful date for the return of common sense is suggested.

The British capitalist has no constructive program because he does not see where the money is to come from. He resents those Americans who say that Great Britain is done for and he sentimentally insists that there will always be a Britain, which is undoubtedly so. But he does not see what kind. He even resents any discussion of this side of the Atlantic of British credit, particularly by the hard-headed folks who insist that this country does not have the money to finance British failure to produce by means of socialism. He then points to Britain's sacrifices in the war, which were enormous, larger in comparison to any other country. He wants the United States to share in those sacrifices by providing dollars, not recognizing that it would be no aid to Britain if the U. S. went broke.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

GALL STONES

Because the majority of men and women with gall stones do not know the stones are present, and also so many with stones have but "slight" symptoms, most physicians naturally advise all these patients that no treatment is necessary. Should attacks of gall stone colic occur, or there be persistent pain in the region of the gall bladder, then draining the gall bladder or removing the gall bladder by surgical operation is usually advised. It will come as a surprise to many to be told that gall stones are not harmless.

Dr. C. A. Buchhuber, Professor of Surgery, College of Medical Evangelists, states that there are certain facts about gall stones that all should recognize. First, there are no harmless gall stones. Gall stones—where there are many or only one—will sooner or later cause serious symptoms which may or may not be relieved by surgery. Second, as the patient grows older, he usually suffers from other diseases common with advancing years, such as heart and blood vessel diseases, which may cause death.

For years, many have thought of a single gall stone as harmless. But Dr. Buchhuber points out that it is the single that most often perforates the gall bladder, thus setting up that deadly complication, peritonitis, which means an immediate operation to save the life of the person.

Another danger of gall stones is that the patient, because he recovers from several attacks of gall stone colic, thinks he will always do so. This is a mistake because he may not survive the next attack.

Finally, as cancer of the gall bladder is always fatal and 60 per cent of these cases have gall stones, the removal of gall stones only could save life.

I am basing on this information as so many with slight gall stone symptoms feel that they have nothing to worry about and fail to consult their physician. Early treatment will save many lives.

Liver and Gall Bladder

The liver does more different kinds of work than any other organ in the body. Anything that interferes with its work upsets all the body processes. The gall bladder can cause many distressing symptoms. tically all progress in a free economy, this is the result of the competitive system. Competition goes far beyond physical attributes of retail establishments, and takes in such varied fields as price, special services, employee courtesy and so on. Advertising is employed in the newspapers more and more extensively. Every merchant constantly seeks to outdo the man next door.

No country has a retail system comparable to that of the United States. Even in the smallest towns the consumer is offered the same variety of goods, at the same prices, as in larger cities. He gets comparable service. And competition is responsible.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Well, sir, at first I thought that Zaney Swope was pulling a gag, because this telegram said: "Bernard M. Baruch and Herbert Bayard-Swope invite you to cocktails to meet the selected reporters attending the seminar of Journalism of the American Press Institute," whatever the hell that is, "Columbia School of Journalism, from five to seven o'clock, at Sherry's, 300 Park avenue," and so forth.

So I wired him back that in memory of the dear dead days at Andy's Seminary and Perry's and the Key-Club under Brooklyn bridge, where the dean was a tough Mick named Sport Hallahan who got himself appointed a prohibition agent so he could ride his own loads in from Freeport and confidentially Pegler, my friend, that sentence has got clear away from you so you better X it out and start over.

All right, so I wired Herbert that in memory of those dead days in those stately old seminaries that thrived when the newspaper business was supposed to be concentrated on Park Row, although it really wasn't any more localized on Park Row than the theatre business is localized on Broadway today. The Journal and the American were over there on, I even forgot the name of that sort of little square and the Mail was on City Hall Place and the Tribune, that was before the bleeding hearts messed it up, and the Sun papers, morning and evening, were on Nassau and, pardon me all over, Mr. P., but weren't you saying something about Pop Swope and the seminaries?

So I wired Pegler about those old seminaries where some of us used to do a little drumming and hanging around, although not me, very much, because I was drawing just $25 a week from the U.P. and you know how much cruising means that gave a kid, even then. But a lot of the great stars of Park Row did do some fellowshiping in those dumps. Well, now, I mustn't call Andy's a dump because it wasn't and Perry's was the most stately bar you could imagine. Hallahan's was a dump all right and it smelled like national goat week in the old Garden. They kept the windows boarded up as a snarl for the tax people and the prohibition department to make it look like abandoned premises and usually half a dozen teenty red-hots spitting like tomatoes on a gas plate that burned up the oxygen.

I guess I will tell you tomorrow what I was going to say about those seminaries of the American Press Institute and kind of finish up about Perry's and just some odds and ends. I write twice a week and usually try not to run over four pages, very much, because otherwise they might your beautiful prose and let it bleed to death and here it is already below the fold of page three.

Well, Perry's was a small, round room just off the entrance to the "Bond" Building and there was a sink and the bottles were on the drainboards and on shelves around but there was actually no bar at all. You just ordered from the fellow and paid the guy at the damper and there was nothing to lean your elbows on or lean against. So the customers stood up and after the second or third hotel people would get tired and either go on home or up to Andy's or some other place where you could sit down.

But not to sport's dump because this was before prohibition and Perry's was absolutely legitimate and went out about the time that sport started in down there under the bridge. Perry's was the only place I ever heard of that really did specialize in cocktails, whereas you see the sign "cocktails" or "cocktail lounge" and all that everywhere these days but it really just means saloon. Perry's made a wonderful martini for fifteen cents and when I say a martini was wonderful you know it must have been good because there is the orniciest, meanest, no-dam-goddest, mess of rancor ever concocted and it causes more fights and more people get their glasses broken and arrested and divorced on account of martinis than for any other reason. They can tell you all they like that he favored old-fashioned but I tell you old man Roosevelt was a martini man so it is no wonder he had to stash the square-face behind the clock and in the umbrella stand to keep the old girl from finding it. One slug of square face plus one slug of that rancid ivy juice they call vermouth and a guy in his job could make a revolution.

I don't think Perry's ever served an old-fashioned. I don't think this mess even was heard of until prohibition because in those days if you wanted a fruit salad or a vegetable dinner you went to a restaurant and ordered it like a man. I don't think they ever heard of an orange blossom in Perry's but they did used to have a little cocktail called a Bronx that had a smidge of orange juice and not too bad, anyway, until you got your growth and cut out the nonsense and either drank whiskey or didn't drink.

You used to see some wonderful newspaper men around those old seminaries. But do you know who you didn't see? Herbie Swope and Roy Howard. Roy had a little glassed off coop in the corner of the United Press office on the third floor and when he and Archie Parker, our cable rewrite man, would get in a script about how to handle a story, hollering in their high pitch, it sounded like sea gulls just after lunch time as they came past Block Island.

Herbie and Roy weren't exclusive or short in the reach when the tab fell but they were always hustling with something more important to do. They passed a lot of people in Perry's and Andy's. Well, I think where I am. They will probably slip this one off just back of the ears. (Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Lifelines

C. R. DOUGLAS

Few New Yorkers and not many of us in this region know the cost when a drip goes to town.

It has and does cost plenty to get our excellent Catskill Mountain water to the metropolis nearly 100 miles below us, and the cost is there for that little annoying drip in the bathroom as much as for a full tub or invigorating shower.

It all goes over a system which has cost the big city millions and is still costing millions more as the water department backs deeper into the state resources to tap other important water sheds.

A recent news item set the estimated cost of present projects at $40,000,000. This is above cost of the recently completed pressure tunnel which is to carry the water from the new reservoirs. The major contract for the great Ashokan dam was let in 1938 for $12,660,000 and the low bid for the first aqueduct was $13,305,000 in the same year.

Costs for various phases of the Ashokan project were listed in 1938 as follows: Olive Bridge dam, $4,044,000; Beaverkill dike, $1,468,000; West dike, $1,460,000; East dike, $42,000; West Hurley dike, $126,000; Woodstock dike, $88,000 and Glenford dike, $100,000.

Again it can be said that few New Yorkers realize how indebted they are to this region for their excellent water supply, and it is to be hoped that the big city someday will be able to do as much in return for the region.

The metropolis has been fortunate from the outset through the geographical fact that Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse are not in the positions on the map now held by Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh.

Three such larger cities as these undoubtedly would have protested New York's extensive tappings of major watersheds in this region because of their own requirements, and it is more than likely that all would have drawn from the waters of the Catskills.

It was possible also back in 1938 when New York began its Ashokan project in earnest that the three mid-Hudson cities through some unusual industrial development could have grown as fast as the larger up-state communities. Then too, there would have been greater demands for new water supplies in the immediate region, New York, at the time, however, either disregarded such possibilities or did not care.

Kingston appears to be doing well with an excellent water supply not too far removed. The source appears adequate enough for a much larger city, but it would undoubtedly fail to meet the needs of another Buffalo or Rochester in this region, and where water is concerned, we have only to hope that we never achieve the population of either.

It would be ironic indeed if such a city in the lap of the Catskills were forced to reach out toward the Adirondacks for its water supply. As it appears now, however, the chances of such extensive growth here are about even with those of New York's shrinking to the size of Hoboken. The big town, it seems, called the shot with a true hunch.

Today in Washington

If Public Approval Is Registered at 1948 Polls Republicans Will Continue Government Economy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 28—Nothing so spectacular as cutting government expenditures gets any cheers from the spectators—in fact, all one has heard thus far has been jeers. Yet the Republican majority in Congress is doing a job that hasn't been done for many years—certainly not since the Democratic party came into power in 1933, when, after having promised during the 1932 campaign a 25 per cent decrease in the federal budget, expenditures were deliberately increased.

The Republicans are cutting deep. Hence the cries of distress from the bureaucrats from coast to coast. In Washington, where the habit has been to "spend and elect and elect," as the saying went in New Deal days, the criticism of the Republicans is severe. Naturally those affected by the cut in expenses don't like it.

But what is surprising is that the taxpayers far and wide do not seem to appreciate what is being done in their behalf in the national capital. All they read in the press is, that this or that important item has been cut and that the Republicans are going to get punished by this or that section of the electorate for having reduced certain expenditures.

Few things at least more to the courage of the Republicans than their readiness to cut agricultural and reclamation appropriations when these mean votes in western and middle western states that are predominantly Republican. The Democrats just can't understand it—they think their Republican brethren are committing political suicide.

When the House of Representatives, under the leadership of the chairman of the appropriations committee, Representative John Taber of New York, promised to make substantial cuts, the critics scoffed. Before Mr. Taber could get the details arranged, they jeered again and said he couldn't possibly bring in any substantial cuts. But the House of Representatives has already cut about $2,300,000,000 toward the $4,500,000,000 set by the Senate as its goal and the House plans further cuts on the War Department and the bill covering independent offices and agencies.

It was then rumored that the Senate would restore virtually all the cuts and that economy would be taught. But the Senate, in passing the Treasury Justice and Labor Department bills, didn't make any material change from the House cuts.

When the critics are not arguing that the Republicans just can't make any big cuts, they are saying that the reductions are "phony" or "paper cuts." All this merely spurs the Republican leadership on to prove their sincerity. The result has been the most drastic cuts in appropriations that have been made in a dozen years.

Now unquestionably some of the cuts are too severe and some things should not be eliminated, but experience teaches the legislators that they never can find out what is vital and what is superfluous unless they force a shakedown. The only way to do it is to cut and put the bureaucrats on the defensive. Usually these agencies which are cut come up with some way of managing to get along without as much money as before.

It should be borne in mind that most of the figures used in the press dispatches relate to actual appropriations. This is a different thing from actual expenditures in that because the treasury often spends money made available under the appropriation laws of previous years. There is, as a matter of fact, a lot of loose money around in the government—unexpended balances—that can be saved. The Republican majority, through its committees, is going through the government's finances this year with a fine-tooth comb. It is a salutary development.

Much more economizing can be done. If, after the 1948 election, the Republicans continue in power, they will do even more cutting. For if they can reduce expenses as they have in the face of an approaching national election, they certainly will not hesitate to go further when they win public approval at the polls.

The United States government has needed an economy wave for a long time. Extravagances grow with the years and soon items that were appropriated for a purpose a decade ago are listed as "essential." The belief that the government owes special favors with public funds is deeply ingrained and the thought that certain sums can be spent permanently, irrespective of the plight of the taxpayer, is widely held in bureaucratic circles.

The Republicans have been wise in proposing a reduction. Without that urge they couldn't have cut the budget. Unfortunately, the Democrats have done everything they could to hamper the economy program. But the Republicans will emerge successful in their legislative battle and by July 1st, when the next fiscal year begins, they will have lopped off a bigger percentage from the budget than any Congress ever cut from the budgets of a predecessor Congress. Questions—Answers

Q—What is the source of the word "jeep"?
A—The letters "G.P." which stood for "General Purpose," painted on the sides of the first U. S. Army quarter-ton reconnaissance cars.

Q—How does Russia compare in size with the African continent?
A—Over two-thirds as large.

Q—Is there a throne for the King in England's House of Commons?
A—No, the King never enters Commons.

Q—Is it possible for a layman to be elected Pope?
A—Any male Catholic regardless of color or race is eligible. If a layman were selected he would have to be ordained and consecrated.

MANN ON GERMANY

Thomas Mann, world renowned author, who left his native Germany in 1933 in protest against Hitlerism, spoke in London recently on Germany's future. He suggested that huge training camps for German teachers be set up in British-American zones. These properly trained instructors could then go out to handle German youth, bringing to them cultural and democratic fare. This Germany badly needs, Mann pointed out, since all her cultural and economic resources have been concentrated on a "barbaric regime" since 1933. The present division of the country into occupational zones makes it hard for Germans to understand the basic philosophies of individual freedom held by the allies.

In all views of the German problem, two matters are invariably emphasized: first, the need for wholesale teacher-re-education in order to raise a new crop of youth trained in democratic ways of thinking; second, the difficulty resulting from the occupational zoning of the country. There is evidence that Americans, British and French are more and more breaking down their zonal barriers, but Russia's remains ironbound by itself. Nevertheless, education must be pushed in the three western areas, and that section must be trained as rapidly as possible to democracy. It is not easy to do this, nor can it be done rapidly. It will take much time and greater patience. That is all the more reason for enlarging the beginnings already made in giving the young Germany of today a sound foundation.

LOST CHILDREN

One of the most human things about little boys and girls is their tendency to wander away from home when spring comes, thereby often getting lost and causing their parents and friends much needless trouble. An observer suggests what may be at least a partial remedy. He finds some kind of attractive adornment which the other youngsters haven't got, and which they are therefore proud to wear, and pins it on so conspicuously that it isn't likely to come off. Thus the child is more easily traced and identified.

Less conspicuous but quite useful is a tag with name and address fastened on the back of the clothing where it cannot easily be dislodged. Teaching the small fry to state their name, father's name and address, when asked, is also a good idea.

Most important of all is to teach them that the policeman is their friend.

LONG LENDING PROGRAM

Speaking in Jefferson, Iowa, at a UN celebration, Harold E. Stassen, avowed Republican presidential aspirant, suggested that the United States lend ten per cent of its resources to the world. The loan program, which would include food, would last for ten years. Its aim would be the building of world peace, plenty and freedom. He believes this country should not expect payment in kind, but should administer the program. It should not be directed at anyone, and of course should not include armament.

These ideas are from a man who has visited many foreign nations. What he has to say now that he is home is significant, and the more so because he may possibly be nominated for president. It does no harm, in any event, for the American people to weigh proposals like this of solutions to the international confusion. No one can tell when the germ of a really good idea may be born.

RETAIL REVOLUTION

Progress which covers a long period of years often goes unrecognized. It is simply taken for granted.

The changes which business evolution has brought to typical retail stores is a case in point. Anyone who is able to remember the cracker-barrel grocery store of a generation ago will recognize the vast improvements which have taken place. There is no comparison between then and now in such matters as conveniences, sanitation, arrangement, abundance and variety of stocks and display and handling methods. Like prac-

HOW MUCH?

The argument against the British loan when it was proposed here was that Great Britain could not solve her internal economic problems by borrowing $3,750,000,000 here. It was said then that the British problem was to produce goods, to get more work out of British labor, to end feather-bedding there, to apply the most efficient methods of management and engineering. It was said by the opponents of the loan that Britain would be tempted to use the dollars of the loan to accumulate consumer's good instead of capital and durable goods and that therefore when the loan was used up, Britain would have nothing to show for the money borrowed. In other words, Great Britain would have to come to this country for more.

That is exactly what has happened. The Socialist government of Great Britain has been unable to mobilize British labor for increased production. When this government came into power, the British worker apparently assumed that Utopia had arrived. Why work? The government guaranteed subsistence from the cradle to the grave anyhow? Nationalization, the hope of the Socialists, did not increase efficiency. In a comparatively low wage country, the difference in income between those who do work and those who do not work is not sufficiently large to encourage working. Besides, the entire theory of British trade unionism has always been to limit the production of the individual worker. Feather-bedding is no new doctrine in that country, equality being recognized as the leveling of the efficient and the incompetent to the productivity of the average worker.

"Neo-Luddism" has been a costly concept in England. It is a restriction on the use of improved machinery, on labor-saving devices, on new techniques which result in greater production. The result is that Britain is behind this country, and even some of the smaller industrial countries, in the use of the most modern types of machinery and of managerial techniques.

British capitalists responded to the Labour Government altogether differently. They did not believe that Utopia had arrived; rather they accepted Hell on Earth. They accepted monopoly and cartelization as their only hope. They assumed that the United States would see Britain through until the British people came to their senses. But no hopeful date for the return of common sense is suggested.

The British capitalist has no constructive program because he does not see where the money is to come from. He resents those Americans who say that Great Britain is done for and he sentimentally insists that there will always be a Britishly which is undoubtedly so. But he does not say what kind. He even resents any discussion on this side of the Atlantic of British credit, particularly by those hard-headed folks who insist that this country does not have the money to finance British failure to produce by means of socialism. He then points to Britain's sacrifices in the war, which were enormous, larger in comparison to any other country. He wants the United States to share in the sacrifices by providing dollars, not recognizing that it would be no aid to Britain if the U. S. went broke, too.

This country does not have the dollars to provide. The balances are growing frightfully unfavorable to the United States. This country is to interpret about $5,000,000,000 over its trade balance to Europe and Asia annually—and we do not know for how many years. It means that American resources are to be siphoned off in the amount of what Europe and Asia can buy by some exchange of goods and services plus $5,000,000,000. No such amount is available in the United States. That is some measure responsible for our high prices; it is responsible for our federal budget of more than $30,000,000,000, which load the American taxpayer cannot bear, particularly as, in 1946, 47.5 per cent of the tax revenue came from the personal income tax. In 1932, the Customs provided 17.4 per cent of our revenue, but in 1946 only 1 per cent, which makes it clear where the burden falls. And it cannot fall there much longer.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

GALL STONES

Because the majority of men and women with gall stones do not know the stones are present, and also so many with stones have but "slight" symptoms, most physicians naturally advise all these patients that no treatment is necessary. Should attacks of gall stone colic occur, or there be persistent pain in the region of the gall bladder, then draining the gall bladder or removing the gall bladder by surgical operation is usually advised. It will come as a surprise to be told that gall stones are not harmless.

Dr. C. A. Bachhuber, Professor of Surgery, College of Medical Evangelists, states that there are certain facts about gall stones that all should recognize. First, there are no harmless gall stones. Gall stones—where there are many or only one—will sooner or later cause serious symptoms which may or may not be relieved by surgery. Second, as the patient grows older, he usually suffers from other diseases common with advancing years, such as heart and blood vessel diseases, which may cause death.

For years, many have thought of a single gall stone as harmless. But Dr. Bachhuber points out that it is the single that most often perforates the gall bladder, thus setting up that deadly complication, peritonitis, which means an immediate operation to save the life of the person.

Another danger of gall stones is that the patient, because he recovers from several attacks of gall stone colic, thinks he will always do so. This mistake because he may not survive the next attack.

Finally, as cancer of the gall bladder is always fatal and 60 per cent of these cases have gall stones, the removal of gall stones early would save life. I am banding on this information as so many with slight gall stone symptoms feel that they have nothing to worry about and fail to consult their physician. Early treatment will save many lives.

Liver and Gall Bladder

The liver does more different kinds of work than any other organ in the body. Anything that interferes with its work upsets all the body processes. The gall bladder can cause many distressing symptoms. tically all progress in a free economy, this is the result of the competitive system. Competition goes far beyond physical attributes of retail establishments, and takes in such varied fields as price, special services, employe courtesy and so on. Advertising is employed in the newspapers more and more extensively. Every merchant constantly seeks to outdo the man next door.

No country has a retail system comparable to that of the United States. Even in the smallest towns the consumer is offered the same variety of goods, at the same prices, as in larger cities. He gets comparable service. And competition is responsible.

UNCLE SAM
PHRENOLOGIST

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Well, sir, at first I thought that Zane Swope was pulling a gag, because this telegram said: "Bernard M. Baruch and Herbert Bayard Swope invite you to cocktails to meet the selected reporters attending the seminar of journalism of the American Press Institute," whatever the hell that is, "Columbia School of Journalism, from five to seven o'clock, at Sherry's, 300 Park Avenue—" and so forth.

So I wired him back that in memory of the dear dead days at Andy's Seminary and Perry's and the Key-Club under the Brooklyn bridge, where the dean was a tough Mick named Sport Hallahan who got himself appointed a prohibition agent so he could ride his own loads in from Freeport and confidentially, Pegler, my friend, that sentence has got clear away from you so you better X it out and start over.

All right, so I wired Herbert that in memory of those dear dead days in those stately old seminars that thrived when the newspaper business was supposed to be concentrated on Park Row, although it really wasn't any more, localized on Park Row than the theatre business is localized on Broadway today. The Journal and the American were over there on, I've forgot the name of that sort of little square, and the Mail was on City Hall Place and the Tribune, that was before the bleeding hearts messed it up, and the Sun papers, morning and evening, were on Nassau and, pardon me all over, Mr. P., but weren't they just a week out of Pop Swope and the seminarians?

So I wired Herbie about those old seminars where some of us used to do a little dramming and hanging around, although not me, very much, because I was drawing just as much from the M.P. and you know how much cruising radius that gave a kid, even then. But a lot of the great stars of Park Row did do some fellowshiping in those dumps. Well, now, I must call Andy's a dump because I was going to say about the most stately bar you could imagine. Hallahan was a dump all right and it smelled like national goat week in the old Garden. They kept the windows boarded up as a stall for the tax people and the prohibition department to make it look like abandoned premises and usually half a dozen teenty red-hot spitting like tomatos on a gas plate that burned up the oxygen.

I guess I will tell you tomorrow what I was going to say about those seminars of the American Press Institute and kind of finish up, about Perry's and just some odds and ends. I write triple space and usually try not to run over four pages, very much, because otherwise they slash your beautiful prose and let it bleed to death and here it is already below the fold of page three.

Well, Perry's was a small, round room just off the entrance to the World Building and there was a sink, and the bottles were on the drainboards and on shelves around but there was actually no bar at all. You just ordered from the fellow and paid the guy at the damper and there was nothing to lean your elbows on or lean against. So the customers stood up and after the second or third host people would get tired and either go on home or up to Andy's or some other place where you could sit down.

But not to sport's dump because this was before prohibition and Perry's was absolutely legitimate and went out about the time that sport started in down there under the bridge. Perry's was the only place I ever heard of that really did specialize in cocktails, whereas you see the sign "cocktails" or "cocktail lounge" and all that everywhere these days but it really just means saloon. Perry's made a wonderful martini for fifteen cents and when I say a martini was wonderful you know it must have been good because there is the orneriest, meanest, no-dam-goodest mess of rancor ever concocted and it causes more fights and more people get their glasses broken and arrested and divorced on account of martinis than for any other reason. They can tell you all how to make a martini, but I tell you old man Roosevelt was a martini man so it is no wonder he had to stash the square-face behind the clock and in the umbrella stand to keep the old girl from finding it. One slug of square face plus one slug of that rancid ivy juice they call vermouth and a guy in his job could make a revolution.

I don't think Perry's ever served an old-fashioned. I don't think this mess ever was heard of until probably because in those days if you wanted a fruit salad or a vegetable dinner you went to a restaurant and ordered it like, man, I don't think they ever heard of an orange blossom in Perry's but they did used to have a little cocktail called a Bronx that had a smite of orange juice and not too bad, anyway, until you got your growth and cut out the sense and either drank whiskey or didn't drink.

You used to see some wonderful newspaper men around those old seminars. But do you know who you didn't see? Herbie Swope and Roy Howard. Roy had a little glassed off coop in a corner of the United Press office on the third floor and when he and Archie Parke, our cable rewrite man, would get in a scrap about hustling with something more like sea gulls just after lunch time as the boats on the European run come past Black Island.

Herbie and Roy weren't exclusive or short in the reach when the tab fell but they were always hustling with something more important to do. They passed a lot of people in Perry's and Andy's. Well, look where I am. They will probably clip this one off just back of the ears.

Lifelines

C. R. DOUGLAS

Few New Yorkers and not many of us in this region know the cost when a drip goes to town.

It has and does cost plenty to get our excellent Catskill Mountain water to the metropolis nearly 100 miles below us, and the cost is there for that little annoying drip in the bathroom as much as for a full tub or invigorating shower.

It all goes over a system which has cost the big city millions and is still costing millions more as the water department backs deeper into the state resources to tap other important water sheds.

A recent news item set the estimated cost of present projects at $40,000,000. This is above cost of the recently completed pressure tunnel which is to carry the water from the new reservoirs. The major contract for the great Ashokan dam was let in 1908 for $12,660,000 and the low bid for the first aqueduct was $13,305,000 in the same year.

Costs for various phases of the Ashokan project were listed in 1908 as follows: Olive Bridge dam, $4,044,000; Beaverkill dike, $1,468,000; West dike, $1,450,000; East dike, $42,000; West Hurley dike, $126,000; Woodstock dike, $88,000 and Glenford dike, $100,000.

Again it can be said that few New Yorkers realize how indebted they are to this region for their excellent water supply, and it is to be hoped that the big city someday will be able to do as much in return for the region.

The metropolis was so fortunate from the outset through the geographical fact that Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse are not in the positions on the map now held by Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh.

Three larger cities as these undoubtedly would have protested New York's extensive tappings of major watersheds in this region because of their own requirements, and it is more than likely that all would have drawn from the waters of the Catskills.

It was possible to back in 1908 when New York began its Ashokan project in earnest that the three mid-Hudson cities through some unusual industrial development could have grown as fast as the larger up-state communities. Then, however, the source appears adequate enough for a much larger city, but it would undoubtedly fail to meet the needs of another Buffalo or Rochester in this region, and where water is concerned, we have only to hope that we never achieve the population of either.

It would be ironic indeed if such a city in the lap of the Catskills were forced to reach out toward the Adirondacks for its water supply. As it appears now, however, the chances of such extensive growth here are about even with those of New York's shrinking to the size of Hoboken. The big town, it seems, called the shot with a true hunch.

Today in Washington

If Public Approval Is Registered at 1948 Polls Republicans Will Continue Government Economy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 28—Nothing so unspectacular as cutting government expenses gets any cheers from the spectators—in fact, all one has heard thus far has been jeers. Yet the Republican majority in Congress is doing a job that hasn't been done for many years—certainly not since the Democratic party came into power in 1933, when, after having promised during the 1932 campaign a 25 per cent decrease in the federal budget, expenses were deliberately increased.

The Republicans are cutting deep. Hence the cries of distress from the bureaucrats from coast to coast. In Washington, where the habit has been to "spend and spend and elect and elect"—as the saying went in New Deal days—the criticism of the Republicans is severe. Naturally those affected by the cut in expenses don't like it.

But what is surprising is that the taxpayers, far and wide do not seem to appreciate who is being cut in their behalf in the national capital. All they read in the press is that this or that important item has been cut and that the Republicans are going to get punished by this or that section of the electorate for having reduced certain expenditures.

Few things attest more to the courage of the Republicans than their readiness to cut agricultural and reclamation appropriations when these mean votes in western and middle western states that are predominantly Republican. The Democrats just can't understand it—they think their Republican brethren are committing political suicide.

When the House of Representatives, under the leadership of the chairman of the appropriations committee, Representative John Taber of New York, promised to make substantial cuts, the critics scoffed. Before Mr. Taber could get the details arranged, they jeered again and said he couldn't possibly bring in any substantial cuts. But the House of Representatives has already cut about $2,300,000,000 toward the $4,500,000,000 set by the Senate as its goal and the House plans further cuts on the War Department and the bill covering independent offices and agencies.

It was then rumored that the Senate would restore virtually all the cuts and that economy would come to naught. But the Senate, in passing the Treasury, Justice and Labor department bills, didn't make any radical change from the House cuts.

When the critics are not arguing that the Republicans just can't make any big cuts, they are saying that the reductions are "phony" or "paper cuts." All this merely spurs the Republican leadership on to prove their sincerity. The result has been the most drastic cuts in appropriations that have been made in a dozen years.

Now unquestionably some of the cuts are too severe and some things should not be eliminated, but experience teaches the legislators that they never can find out what is vital and what is superfluous unless they force a shake-out. The only way to do it is to cut and put the bureaucrats on the defensive. Usually those agencies which are cut come up with some way of managing to get along without as much money as before.

It should be borne in mind that most of the figures used in the press dispatches relate to actual appropriations. This is a different thing from actual expenditures in a budget because the treasury often spends money made available under the appropriation laws of previous years. There is, as a matter of fact, a lot of loose money around in the government—unexpended balances—that can be saved. The Republican majority, through its committees, is going through the government's finances this year with a fine-tooth comb. It is a salutary development.

Much more economizing can be done. If, after the 1948 election, the Republicans continue in power, they will do even more cutting. For if they can reduce expenses as much as they have in the face of an approaching national election, they certainly will not hesitate to go further when they win public approval at the polls.

The United States government has needed an economy wave for a long time. Extraneous growth with the years and soon items that were appropriated for a purpose a decade ago are listed as "essential." The belief that the government owes special favors with public funds is deeply ingrained and the thought that certain sums can be spent permanently, irrespective of the plight of the taxpayer, is widely held in bureaucratic circles.

The Republicans have been wise in proposing tax reduction. Without that urge they couldn't have a budget. Unfortunately, they could to hamper the economy program. But the Republicans will emerge successful in their legislative battle and by July 1st, when the next fiscal year begins, they will have lopped off a bigger percentage from the budget than any Congress ever cut from the budgets of a predecessor Congress.

Social Scientists Will Speak at Bard College

Annandale-on-Hudson, May 28—Frank Reissman, a psychologist and Michel Miller, an economist, will discuss "The Social Scientist—His Duties and Responsibilities To The World" at a meeting to be held tonight, in Albee Hall at Bard College.

Mr. Miller and Mr. Reissman are members of an organization of Social Scientists which publishes a magazine called "Ideas For Action", which contains results of social research and recommendations for social action.

Mr. Reissman has recently concluded his Social Science Research Fellowship and is at present doing research work at Columbia University. In the fall he will teach as an Instructor of Psychology at Rutgers University.

Mr. Miller, formerly assistant Regional Economist of Federal Housing in New York, received his M.A. at Princeton University and is currently doing research work on a fellowship there. Beginning this summer he will teach as an Instructor of Economics at Rutgers.

The public is invited.

EXCHANGE SAID:

PLEASE DO THIS—get out your Series "E" War Bonds and check them with the chart at the right. Then you will understand why we urge:

"Hold the 'E' bonds you already have...you can't afford to cash them in."

TODAY, THIS ADVICE IS TWO YEARS STRONGER!

The "E" bonds you bought during the war have not only increased in value, but the rate of increase has stepped up too!

As the chart shows, the increase in value of an "E" bond is greatest in the later years of the bond's life. (White bars represent $75 original investment on an "E" bond of $100 face value—the black bars show the increase in value by years over this original amount.)

Note how the rate of increase goes up in the second three years—and goes up again even more sharply in the final four years! This is why the Exchange advises you to put your bonds away until they reach their full value.

The bonds of our Government are the only securities this Exchange has ever recommended in the 155 years of its existence. We urge you! Save the easy way, through the Payroll Savings Plan or the new Bonds-Month Plan. The Series "E" Savings Bonds you put away today offer the same return on your investment, the same safety, as the War Bonds you bought during the war years. You can buy them with certainty...hold them with confidence.

son with Arguello, pointing out that the creation of unrest in the army constituted a threat to the peace of Nicaragua.
He said he called in the officers who had been plotting against him and laid his cards on the table. They responded in an insolent manner, he said, when he suggested that they all sign a declaration with him that there was no friction in the National Guard.
They said they wanted to know what Arguello thought about it and Somoza said he agreed and sent his son to the President with the declaration. Maj. Somoza reported back that Arguello only smirked and threw the declaration on the table.

Time for Showdown
Sunday afternoon, the general continued, he decided that the time had come for a showdown and arranged to see Arguello at the Presidential Palace at 4 p. m. Shortly before that hour, he said, he was tipped off that eight machineguns manned by Arguello men were waiting in ambush in front of the palace, with the guns aimed at a point where he usually parked his car.
"I did not keep the appointment," the general said.
He immediately ordered 2,000 National Guardsmen into Managua.

"First we took over all the communications, including the railroads, telegraph, telephone and wireless," he said.
The new Managua police chief was ordered to turn his command to the old chief, but refused and was arrested. Somoza said he learned that a group of insurgent officers, well-armed, had holed up in the National Defense Ministry. He telephoned them and ordered them to surrender but they refused.

"At the same time I was in communication with a tank which had moved up in front of the building," Gen. Somoza said. "I gave them two minutes to decide and told them that the tank would open fire. They came out and turned over their arms."

Not a Shot Fired
He said not a single shot was fired in the entire coup.
"There is not one political prisoner in the country. The officers who were aroused against me are my guests here (in the National Guard Club building next to the Presidential Palace). They eat at the same table with me."

Some members of Arguello's cabinet and a few National Guard officers look refuge in other Latin American Embassies. The Mexican Embassy said Arguello was its guest and that he had no immediate plans for leaving the country. The Embassy declined to permit an interview with Arguello.

Sources in Panama close to the Nicaraguan situation said earlier that Somoza had engineered the coup because Arguello tried to exile Somoza and had dismissed several Somoza supporters from high government posts.

Rain of Death

of "dry ice" or solid carbon dioxide into clouds.
Precipitation by this method was first achieved last year by Vincent J. Schaefer, General Electric Company scientist, in an experiment over Massachusetts. By dropping the dry ice into a cloud—thereby suddenly chilling it—Schaefer succeeded in causing a small snow fall. A similar experiment in Australia produced rain.

Airmen see military value in the dry ice technique if it can be developed to the point where a whole cloud mass can be turned into water and precipitated.

If aerial photographic reconnaissance of a future target is prevented by a low cloud accumulation, they say, the clouds could be "swept away" or a hole punched in them to permit the reconnaissance plane to make its picture.

Use of such a method for actual bombing is unnecessary, however, because development of the radar bombsight method makes targets "visible" through any kind of weather.

Agriculture . . .

Agricultural Conservation program may grant no further approval of applications.
3. No further time orders can be sent to suppliers for delivery.
4. No more purchase orders for superphosphate can be issued.
5. All unfilled purchase orders are canceled as of May 27.
6. Applications already approved may have to be revised downward.

Mr. Beatty stated that a complete letter of explanation is being sent at once to all farmers who are enrolled in the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program.

He further requested that farmers refrain from phoning the county office for a few days, in order to give the office staff sufficient time to send out these notices.

Every interested farmer will be kept posted on the developments, he said, and stated that these actions are necessary in order to safeguard funds already obligated.

Writes Winning Essay
Samuel W. Divine, Jr., Kerhonkson, N. Y., wrote the winning essay of those submitted by students of Kerhonkson Union School in the contest sponsored by the Young Cooperators of the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association. It has been announced.

This essay is now being judged with the best from other schools to determine district and area winners and the winner of the grand prize of a scholarship at any land grant college in the New York milkshed. The essay contest was based on this topic: "Milk, Our Number One Crop." In recognition that milk is the most important product in northeastern agriculture.

Grand Jury Makes Report Here Today On 5 Indictments

One of the shortest grand jury reports in some time was made in Supreme Court this morning at 11 o'clock when the May grand jury reported to Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick. There were but five indictments, two open and three sealed. The report included six dismissals.

The two defendants named in the open bills were arraigned and pleas of not guilty were entered and the cases were then all referred to County Court for further action. On motion of District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn the matter of assignment of counsel as well as fixing of bail was referred to County Court.

Fauline Nancy Souser of Kingston, charged with forgery, second degree, for the alleged passing of a check, pleaded innocent and said she would get an attorney. She was remanded to jail in the absence of bail. Bail will be fixed by County Court.

Elijah Quick of town of Shandaken was arraigned on a charge of violation of Sections 483 and 483-B, carnal abuse of a child, on February 23, last. He pleaded innocent and asked that counsel be assigned. He was remanded to jail pending fixing of bail by County Court.

The three sealed bills were transferred by order to County Court.

No bills were reported in the following cases and dismissals were ordered:

The People vs. Wilson Barry, a Marlborough case involving the alleged taking of a horse.
The People vs. Charles Pendell, a charge several years old of bigamy.

The People vs. Robert L. Gary of Catskill, a case involving a check which was given in Greene county. The grand jury felt the matter was not within the jurisdiction of this county.

The People vs. Aubrey C. Roosa

Nebraska Gets Snow

Omaha, May 28 (AP)—A capricious weather man covered many of Nebraska's May flowers with snow today. Heavy, wet snow began falling in western Nebraska last night and early this morning extended to the northeast. The snow blanket was four inches deep at Chadron in western Nebraska. The temperature dropped to freezing in some places and gardens and shrubbery were expected to suffer.

son with Arguello, pointing out that the creation of unrest in the army constituted a threat to the peace of Nicaragua.
He said he called in the officers who had been plotting against him and laid his cards on the table. They responded in an insolent manner, he said, when he suggested that they all sign a declaration with him that there was no friction in the National Guard.
They said they wanted to know what Arguello thought about it and Somoza said he agreed and sent his son to the President with the declaration. Maj. Somoza reported back that Arguello only smirked and threw the declaration on the table.

Time for Showdown
Sunday afternoon, the general continued, he decided that the time had come for a showdown and arranged to see Arguello at the Presidential Palace at 4 p. m. Shortly before that hour, he said, he was tipped off that eight machineguns manned by Arguello men were waiting in ambush in front of the palace, with the guns aimed at a point where he usually parked his car.

"I did not keep the appointment," the general said. He immediately ordered 2,000 National Guardsmen into Managua.
"First we took over all the communications, including the railroads, telegraph, telephone and wireless," he said.
The new Managua police chief was ordered to turn his command to the old chief, but refused and was arrested. Somoza said he learned that a group of insurgent officers, well-armed, had holed up in the National Defense Ministry. He telephoned them and ordered them to surrender but they refused.

"At the same time I was in communication with a tank which had moved up in front of the building," Gen. Somoza said. "I gave them two minutes to decide and told them that the tank would open fire. They came out and turned over their arms."

Not a Shot Fired
He said not a single shot was fired in the entire coup.
"There is not one political prisoner in the country. The officers who were aroused against me are my guests here (in the National Guard Club building next to the Presidential Palace). They eat at the same table with me."

Some members of Arguello's cabinet and a few National Guard officers took refuge in other Latin American Embassies. The Mexican Embassy said Arguello was its guest and that he had no immediate plans for leaving the country. The Embassy declined to permit an interview with Arguello.

Sources in Panama close to the Nicaraguan situation said earlier that Somoza had engineered the coup because Arguello tried to exile Somoza and had dismissed several Somoza supporters from high government posts.

of "dry ice" or solid carbon dioxide into clouds.
Precipitation by this method was first achieved last year by Vincent J. Schaefer, General Electric Company scientist, in an experiment over Massachusetts. By dropping the dry ice into a cloud—thereby suddenly chilling it—Schaefer succeeded in causing a small snow fall. A similar experiment in Australia produced rain.
Airmen see military value in the dry ice technique if it can be developed to the point where a whole cloud mass can be turned into water and precipitated.
If aerial photographic reconnaissance of a future target is prevented by a low cloud accumulation, they say, the clouds could be "swept away" or a hole punched in them to permit the reconnaissance plane to make its picture.
Use of such a method for actual bombing is unnecessary, however, because development of the radar bombsight method makes targets "visible" through any kind of weather.

Mr. Beatty stated that a complete letter of explanation is being sent at once to all farmers who are enrolled in the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program.
He further requested that farmers refrain from phoning the county office for a few days, in order to give the office staff sufficient time to send out these notices.

Every interested farmer will be kept posted on the developments, he said, and stated that these actions are necessary in order to safeguard funds already obligated.

Writes Winning Essay
Samuel W. Divine, Jr., Kerhonkson, N. Y., wrote the winning essay of those submitted by students of Kerhonkson Union School in the contest sponsored by the Young Cooperators of the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association, it has been announced. This essay is now being judged with the best from other schools to determine district and area winners and the winner of the grand prize of a scholarship at any land grant college in the New York milkshed. The essay contest was based on this topic: "Milk, Our Number One Crop," in recognition that milk is the most important product in northeastern agriculture.

Grand Jury Makes Report Here Today On 5 Indictments

One of the shortest grand jury reports in some time was made in Supreme Court this morning at 11 o'clock when the May grand jury reported to Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick. There were but five indictments, two open and three sealed. The report included six dismissals.

The two defendants named in the open bills were arraigned and pleas of not guilty were entered and the cases were then all referred to County Court for further action. On motion of District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn the matter of assignment of counsel as well as fixing of bail was referred to County Court as well.

Pauline Nancy Souser of Kingston, charged with forgery, second degree, for the alleged passing of a check, pleaded innocent and said she would get an attorney. She was remanded to jail in the absence of bail. Bail will be fixed by County Court.

Elijah Quick of town of Shandaken was arraigned on a charge of violation of Sections 483 and 483-B, carnal abuse of a child, on February 23, last. He pleaded innocent and asked that counsel be assigned. He was remanded to jail pending fixing of bail by County Court.

The three sealed bills were transferred by order to County Court.

No bills were reported in the following cases and dismissals were ordered.

The People vs. Wilson Barry, a Marlborough case involving the alleged taking of a hearse.
The People vs. Charles Pendell, a charge several years old of bigamy.
The People vs. Robert L. Gary of Catskill, a case involving a check which was given in Greene county. The grand jury felt the matter was not within the jurisdiction of this county.
The People vs. Auley C. Roosa

Nebraska Gets Snow

Omaha, May 28 (AP)—A capricious weather man covered many of Nebraska's May flowers with snow today. Heavy, wet snow began falling in western Nebraska last night and early this morning extended to the northeast. The snow blanket was four inches deep at Chadron in western Nebraska. The temperature dropped to freezing in some places and gardens and shrubbery were expected to suffer.

ACCORD

Accord, May 28—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Van Vleet were dinner guests Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Osterhoudt and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Clearwater in honor of Mr. Osterhoudt's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Supnick are the parents of a daughter born at the Kingston Hospital recently. Mrs. Supnick is the former Miss Bella Cohen.

Mrs. Morton Herz, the former Miss Ella Ungar, is a patient at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh where she recently underwent an operation.

Arthur Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Williams who has been a patient at the hospital, has returned home.

The Rev. John Hart spent a few days last week in New Jersey where he attended the annual graduation exercises of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary at New Brunswick. He also visited his home in Jersey City.

There will be no mail service Memorial Day. The post office will be closed all day and there will be no rural mail delivery. Miss Geraldine Barringer, who has spent the winter in Arizona, has been visiting friends in town this week.

Word has been received that Henry Devoe recently went by plane to Miami, Fla., where he visited the Voight family.

Jury Selection Is Slow

Santa Ana, Calif., May 28 (AP)—The process of selecting a jury to try Louise Overell and her sweet-heart, George Gollum, on charges of murdering her parents was still in the initial stage today, but defense strategy was assuming line and proportion. Gollum's counsel, S. B. Kaufman, was examining a prospective juror when he warned: "Remember, that Earl Gollum and Louise Overell are charged with two, and only two, offenses, 1—the murder of Walter Overell and 2—the murder of Beulah Overell, his wife. They are not charged with any other crime."

Holy Cross Ranks Second

The Church of the Holy Cross, 30 Pine Grove avenue, ranked second high in Sunday school attendance record with a mark of 90.5 per cent for the year according to Bishop Charles K. Gilbert who announced the annual awards recently at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Trinity Church of Fishkill led with 96.6 per cent.

Woodstock Plays Host to Legion Units of County

Committee Reports Ulster Legion Members Total 2,501; Smith Tells of Reserve

Woodstock, May 28—A full representation of Woodstock American Legion officials was on hand Tuesday evening to welcome Thomas Bohan, county commander, and other county commanders at the regular county session.

The officials included Paul Joyce, commander; Robert Nussbaum, adjutant; Joe Friedburg, service officer; Henry Guizer, sergeant-at-arms; Ben Buley, chaplain; John Pepper, finance officer; Harry Kutzschbach, Everett Cashdollar and John Pepper, trustees, comprise the official party.

Although the business session was of the routine nature, members did discuss action on the public installation and county baseball league.

The members voted to postpone action on the contemplated public installation for two months at which time another vote will be taken to determine the action.

It was announced that progress has been made for the 1947 County American Legion baseball league which is expected to open early in June. Games will be played every other Sunday at the various towns in the county. At the end of the regular playing season a playoff will be held between winners of the first and second halves. Two out of three games will decide the championship. Money already has been authorized to purchase two trophies for the league.

Membership Increases
The membership committee reported that 2501 members in the county are in good standing and that the total should increase greatly by the end of the year.

Following the reports Chief Petty Officer Smith talked to the group on the benefits of a naval reserve base in the county. He said that 60 members were signed up for that at least 200. Refreshments followed and were served by members of the Woodstock Auxiliary.

Auxiliary Also Meets
Members of the County Auxiliary also convened in Woodstock Tuesday evening and heard Robert Edgerton, representative of the Crovelli Publishing Co., talk on the possibility of raising funds for more hospital beds and oxygen tents.

It was announced during the meeting that Mrs. Ernest S. Jansen of High Falls, past county chairman, had been appointed to contact Dr. George Jansen, county health officer, regarding the various equipment most needed in the county.

Miss Joan Granwehr, Saugerties grade school student, winner of the recent essay contest on "Americanism," attended the session and read her winning essay which contrasted the peaceful rural life in America with that of bomb-shattered towns of Europe. Bernadette Howard of Walkkill was announced the winner in the high school classification.

Going to Poughkeepsie

The junior choir of Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church will go by bus to Poughkeepsie Sunday at 2 p. m., leaving from the church, to take part in a musical program. All desiring to make the trip are asked to be at the church on time.

Kitsos' Python Skin Displayed at Sea Grill

There are lots of ohs and ahs at the Sea Grill, 11 Main street, these days, exclamations by ladies who observe the 14-foot rock python skin displayed in the restaurant.

"Then they add, 'wouldn't that make a nice purse, or a pair of shoes!'"

In fact it would make several of each articles prized by fair damsels who like something different. The large skin was brought from Ethiopia by Peter Kitsos, one of the K. & M. banana firm partners, who made a five-months' tour of that country and surrounding area with his wife.

Mr. Kitsos, who resides at 401 East Chester street, made the trip abroad to see his brother, Demetrios, a silk merchant in Cairo, Egypt.

The large python was shot by a safari partner he was with one day near the Ethiopian border.

Although there is a card, giving data incident to the shooting of the reptile, John Janakis and Mike Bjornids, Sea Grill proprietors are kept busy explaining about it.

Attorney Chris Finnegan, having luncheon at the restaurant, remarked, "Keep that thing away from the bar. It's bad for business when customers think they're seeing snakes."

Ballots Reported Missing

Kings City, May 27 (AP)—Primary election ballots checked by a county grand jury in its investigation of alleged vote frauds, were reported missing today from the vault of the Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners. Ludwick Graves, chairman of the board, said both doors of the large storage vault in the county court house had been pried open and "three ballot boxes containing ballots checked by the grand jury have been opened. 'One of the boxes,' he added, 'is definitely empty.'"

Permits Aren't Needed

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Federal permits will not be required for construction of houses, effective June 1. Housing Expediter Frank R. Crecdon, announcing this today, also said he is lifting then the restrictions on number of bathroom fixtures that may be installed in new homes, and is expanding the area limitation from 1,500 square feet to 2,000 square feet.

Quintuplets Are 13

Callander, Ont., May 28 (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their thirteenth birthday today, and their father said he was worried because they hadn't yet learned to swim. Oliva Dionne added that he was thinking about building a private swimming pool, on his farm for daughters Annie, Cecile, Marie, Yvonne and Emile. "Neither Mrs. Dionne nor myself intends to dictate to them about their future," he said of the quintuplets.

The officials included Paul Joyce, commander; Robert Nussbaum, adjutant; Joe Friedburg, service officer; Henry Grazer, sergeant-at-arms; Ben Buley, chaplain; John Pepper, finance officer; Harry Kulzschbach, Everett Cash-dollar and John Pepper, trustees, comprise the official party.

Although the business session was of the routine nature, members did discuss action on the public installation and county baseball league.

The members voted to postpone action on the contemplated public installation for two months at which time another vote will be taken to determine the action.

It was announced that progress has been made for the 1947 County American Legion baseball league which is expected to open early in June. Games will be played every other Sunday at the various towns in the county. At the end of the regular playing season a playoff will be held between winners of the first and second halves.

Two out of three games will decide the championship. Money already has been authorized to purchase two trophies for the league.

Membership Increases
The membership committee reported that 2501 members in the county are in good standing and that the total should increase greatly by the end of the year.

Following the reports Chief Petty Officer Smith talked to the group on the benefits of a naval reserve base in the county. He said that 60 members were signed up for the reserve but that he hopes to get at least 200.

Refreshments followed and were served by members of the Woodstock Auxiliary.

Auxiliary Also Meets
Members of the County Auxiliary also convened in Woodstock Tuesday evening and heard Robert Edgerton, representative of the Crowell Publishing Co., talk on the possibility of raising funds for more hospital beds and oxygen tents.

It was announced during the meeting that Mrs. Ernest S. Jansen of High Falls, past county chairman, had been appointed to contact Dr. George James, county health officer, regarding the various equipment most needed in the county.

Going to Po'keepsie

The junior choir of Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church will go by bus to Poughkeepsie Sunday at 2 p. m., leaving from the church, to take part in a musical program. All desiring to make the trip are asked to be at the church on time.

Kitsos' Python Skin Displayed at Sea Grill

There are lots of ohs and ahs at the Sea Grill, 11 Main street, these days, exclamations by ladies who observe the 14-foot rock python skin displayed in the restaurant.

"Then they add, 'wouldn't that make a nice purse, or a pair of shoes!'"

In fact it would make several of each article, prized by fair damsels who like something different. The large skin was brought from Ethiopia by Peter Kitsos, one of the K. & M. banana firm partners, who made a five-months' tour of that country and surrounding area with his wife.

Mr. Kitsos, who resides at 401 East Chester street, made the trip abroad to see his brother, Demetrios, a silk merchant in Cairo, Egypt.

The large python was shot by a safari partner he was with one day near the Ethiopian border.

Although there is a card, giving data incident to the shooting of the reptile, John Janakis and Mike Bijarakis, Sea Grill proprietors are kept busy explaining about it.

Attorney Chris Flanagan, having luncheon at this restaurant, remarked, "Keep that thing away from the bar. It's bad for business when customers think they're seeing snakes."

Ballots Reported Missing

Kansas City, May 27 (AP)—Primary election ballots checked by a county grand jury in its investigation of alleged vote frauds were reported missing today from the vault of the Kansas City Board of Election Commissions. Ludwick Graves, chairman of the board, said both doors of the large storage vault in the county court house had been pried open and "three ballot boxes containing ballots checked by the grand jury have been opened. 'One of the boxes,' he added, 'is definitely empty.'"

Permits Aren't Needed

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Federal permits will not be required for construction of houses, effective June 1. Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon, announcing this today, also said he is lifting then the restrictions on number of bathroom fixtures that may be installed in new homes; and is expanding the area limitation from 1,500 square feet to 2,000 square feet.

Dodger Club Is
Guest of Lions at
Tuesday LuncheonBusiness Manager Taylor
Says Hustling Team
Needs Support of Public

The Kingston Dodgers baseball squad, with Manager George "Sugar" Scherger and Paul Taylor, business manager, were guests of the Lions Club at the regular weekly meeting held at the Governor Clinton yesterday afternoon.

Warren Smith, secretary of the Lions group, introduced Taylor to the members, and the latter briefly addressed them in an attempt to clarify various misconceptions concerning Class D baseball units.

Differentiating between the various classes, Taylor outlined in general the particular status of the Dodgers, nine in organized baseball league standings.

He informed the interested members that the team was allowed to operate with 20 players until the end of May, after which the roster would be reduced to 15 active men. Reserves over and above that number, he said, could be maintained in the event of injuries to the regular players.

Taylor said that the Dodgers schedule consisted of 140 games per season, with one-half of this number scheduled on the home field. Weekday games, according to league regulations, would have to be twilight engagements with single or doubleheaders played on Sunday afternoons.

Stadium the Best
Asked what his opinion of the Kingston stadium was, Taylor replied that in his estimation it was probably the best playing field in the North Atlantic League, and that the lighting system for twilight contests was one of the finest setups. Manager Scherger confirmed this opinion.

A hustling competitive spirit is the major factor in organized playing, Taylor said, and Manager Scherger personifies this spirit as is evidenced by the continued success of the Dodgers.

Taylor then introduced Manager Scherger, who in turn presented the individual members of the Dodgers to the Lions group, giving a brief but comprehensive description of each player and the home town of all the boys.

Public Support Needed
As a final admonition to the men present, agent Taylor insisted that the Dodgers were doing well, considering the fact that this was their initial year in Kingston, but emphasized the importance of getting the people of Kingston interested enough to back their representative team to the fullest extent.

A member of the Lions Club asked what aid this group could furnish the Dodgers, and the suggestion of appropriating small canvases to cover parts of the infield at the Stadium was taken up for further action.

Secretary Smith announced that various clubs and organizations in the city were seriously deliberating petitioning the Board of Education to sponsor a city-wide educational and athletic program throughout the summer months, enabling the boys to participate in ball games and other recreational endeavors in an organized movement.

Baseball being one of Kingston's main attractions and greater projects, it is felt that all help that can be attributed by the various clubs will tend to have these initial preparations materialize in the near future for the benefit of all young men and boys in the area.

Speaking in terms of juvenile delinquency, the individual clubs feel that any effort in this regard will diminish the possible chances of emergency on the part of the youngsters.

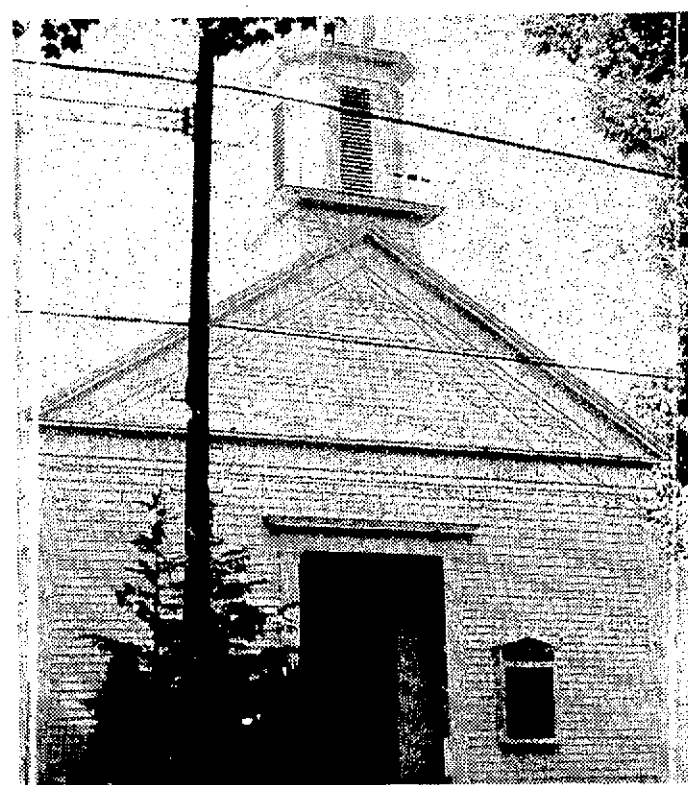

The question is expected to be brought up at the next meeting of the board of education.

Dinner Planned
To Honor Priest on 25th Anniversary

Woodstock, May 28—Victor H. Dardenne will give a short concert at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Sunday afternoon, June 8, following dinner at 1:30, in honor of the Rev. Philip J. Nolan who will celebrate his 25th anniversary.

Members of St. John's parish which includes St. Joan of Arc in Woodstock, will take this opportunity to congratulate Father Nolan and express their appreciation and gratitude for his years of service.

Mr. Dardenne, who is the first violinist of the Metropolitan Orchestra, will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dardenne in a program which will include "The Rondo Capriccioso" by Saint-Saens; "Thine" by Jules Massenet; and "Ave Maria" by Gounod.

Those serving on the committee for this occasion are J. Frank Lynch, chairman; the Rev. Austin Carey, treasurer; Charles Garrison, Mrs. Margaret Greenberg, Miss Margaret Graham, Edward Coffey, Miss Kathryn McAuliffe, Mrs. Stuart Grant, Jack Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Walter McTigue, Edward Dunn and Joseph Marr.

Churches to Unite
For Memorial Rites

Woodstock, May 28—The congregations of the Dutch Reformed, Christ Lutheran and Methodist Churches in Woodstock will unite for a Union Memorial Day Service to be held in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, June 1.

Frank Mason, principal of the Saugerties High School, will preach the sermon.

Other services in Woodstock Churches will be as follows: Christ Lutheran Church, the Rev. O. E. Cook, pastor—Sunday school 10:15 a. m.; Missionary Society meets on Thursday, June 5, at the home of Mrs. Olga Randall.

Methodist Church, the Rev. F. G. Sheely, pastor—Church school 9:45 a. m.; Union Memorial Day service 10:45 a. m.

Saint Joan of Arc Roman Catholic Church, the Rev. Philip J. Nolan, pastor—Religious instruction for children Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock; Sunday Mass 11 a. m.

Christian Science—"The Consequences of Truth" is the subject of the next Christian Science program over Station WNJC, Sunday morning, June 1st, from 8:30 to 9:30. Sunday school 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.; regular service 11 a. m. to 12 noon; Wednesday service 8 to 9 p. m.; reading room open every Saturday afternoon from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. Lesson subject: "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced."

West Coast Show

Woodstock, May 27—The Woodstock Artists Association announces that because of the interest shown in the San Francisco Bay painting now on exhibit at the Art Gallery, the show will be continued during the holiday week-end. Several hundred persons have visited the Gallery in the past two weeks and it is expected that many more will desire to see this exhibition before it closes Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

As a matter of interest, this correspondent asked Fletcher Martin and Herman Cherry to comment on the work now being presented by the western painters, because they both lived on the west coast for many years and became acquainted with some of the exhibiting artists and have had an opportunity over the years to see their work.

Barnes Was Carpenter
Mr. Martin said he knows several of these painters, especially Matt Barnes and Tom Lewis. "It is the first time I have seen their work in quite a while and I note a very definite change in most of it," it indicates an active aesthetic experimentation," stated Mr. Martin. He particularly admires Matt Barnes, an older man, who worked most of his life as a carpenter, painting in his free time and hoping for recognition which finally came to him about 10 years ago when he was asked to exhibit in Joseph Danysz's gallery in San Francisco. A number of reproductions of Matt Barnes' painting will be seen in Sheldon Cheney's book, "Expressionism in Art."

Fletcher Martin had this to say about Tom Lewis. "His style is changing. . . . I think it shows a tendency of contemporary painting on the west coast which is similar to the tendency of the east."

Cherry Gives Views
Herman Cherry, extension chairman of Woodstock Artists Association, offered his opinion by saying "All I can tell you is that I knew them, they were up and coming artists. . . . I have seen their work for quite a few years, but judging by their current work, they haven't gone ahead. Their greatest influence was when Diego Rivera came to San Francisco to do a mural and most of the artists there at the time either worked or studied with him. Then, they were a very vital group. . . . now there is a tendency for each artist to go off on his own and have a more or less personal approach. The war may have been responsible for this change, since many of them were in the army or in war plants and there hasn't been much time since then for these painters to show what they really can do. They are probably trying to pick up where they left off, which is true of artists all over the country."

"I think probably what has happened in San Francisco is true of other places where groups of artists get together and refuse to permit any outside influence.

Without new ideas, creative people become provincial."

Says Woodstock Phenomenon
Mr. Cherry lived on the west coast for 25 years. He came to Woodstock about two years ago, because as he says, "Woodstock has had a fine reputation among artists for many years. Personally, I find it a most stimulating place to live, because of its proximity to New York, and eventually every artist in the country goes through New York. That is very important to any art colony. I don't think there is a place in the United States that can touch Woodstock, because of the hundreds of studios here. This is practically a phenomenon."

Japs Born Cruel
Tokyo, May 28 (AP)—If there were another war, "the Japanese would be just as cruel. It's born in them. They do it to their own people." That is the conclusion of Alva C. Carpenter, who for 17 months has been prosecuting Japanese whose prison-camp atrocities horrified the world. He said today he was convinced they did not

Ernest DeWaters, 31, of 2701 Vyse avenue, Bronx, was arrested on a Plattekill warrant, Tuesday, by New York police for passing a bad check in payment of a boarding house bill.

Two officers assigned by Sheriff George C. Smith, Clayton Vredenburg and Leonard Belmont, removed DeWaters to Plattekill for arraignment before Justice Herbert C. Smalley.

DeWaters, married and the father of two children, waived examination and was held for Grand Jury action. He went to jail, no arrangements having been made for bail.

The check, allegedly given in payment for a board bill, was drawn on a Bronx bank which returned it marked "no funds."

Murphy Funeral Home and at the Church of the Presentation 9:30 o'clock where a high Mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. Joseph Comyns, C.S.S.R. The responses to the Mass were sung by John Long, assisted by Theodore Riccobono, organist. The church was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends who came to pay their last tribute by assisting at the requiem. There was a profusion of flowers and dozens of spiritual bouquets, silent tokens of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. During the days the body reposed in the funeral home, hundreds came to offer their sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family. Father Comyns officiated Monday evening, and assisted by the many present, recited the Rosary. Bearers were John Henry, Frank Cummings, Robert Henry, John McGowan, Michael Henry and Donald McGowan. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Comyns gave the final absolution at the grave.

Buddenhagen Attends Insurance Courses

Clarence H. Buddenhagen of this city is attending the four weeks' course of the Hartford Fire Insurance Training Center conducted by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company at its home office in Connecticut. The purpose of this course is to familiarize its members with the details of fire insurance coverage, fire prevention, insurance rating and various miscellaneous lines available to the insuring public.

On his return Mr. Buddenhagen will resume his duties with the agency of Pardee's Insurance Company with which he has been connected for one and a half years.

The Hartford Fire Insurance Company has been represented by this agency for 76 years. It was originally the D. B. Stow Agency founded in 1861. This agency was purchased by Mr. Pardee on March 22, 1907.

Truman Plans Return
Grandview, Mo., May 28 (AP)—President Truman is planning an early return to Washington in view of the amazing improvement of his mother in the past few days. Presidential Press Secretary Charles C. Ross, said Mrs. Martha E. Truman's improvement has reached such a point that if there is no setback today, "The President may safely consider an early return" to the White House. Ross made his observation at a news conference at 10:45 a. m. (EST) a few hours after the President had said his mother had "the best night" last night since he flew here May 27.

Charged With Rent Gouge
New York, May 28 (Special)—U. S. Housing Expediter Frank Creedon, in a complaint filed Tuesday in Federal Court here, charged Nicholas A. Gallo, landlord of a building at Maple Crest, Highland, with collecting rents in excess of G.P.A. ceilings. An award of triple the amount of the alleged overcharges or, in the alternative, double the amount if the court directs Gallo to make restitution to his tenants, is sought by Creedon in the suit. The government official also asks for an injunction to prevent future violations.

MacCormack Appointed
Albany, N. Y., May 28 (AP)—John A. MacCormack, 47, of Albany, was appointed State Commissioner of Standards and Purchase today by Governor Dewey, effective July 1. MacCormack, chief of Public Works Department Operations and Maintenance, succeeds Richard S. Persons of East Aurora, whose retirement from the $13,000 job was announced yesterday. Persons said he quit because he was near 70 and "the time has come for me to retire."

Army Education Program Has Much To Offer Students

Not all high school graduates can afford to go to college, but additional education, plus technical training is available to qualified young men in the United States Army, 1st Sgt. M. L. Venable, recruiting sergeant at the local recruiting office declared while addressing a local group interested in the service program.

"In these days of international responsibilities," he said, "it is more important than ever before that every young man obtain the best education possible. Though many cannot go to college, they can get real career training in the army."

The army can give an able high school graduate training that will be useful not only to the army but also in civil life he pointed out. High education subjects are taught in classes and through correspondence courses, and training is provided in the many lines of scientific and industrial endeavor in which the army works.

Army technical schools use new training techniques developed during the war which teach students faster, particularly in the engineering, mechanical and electronic lines.

The army has made training interesting by using new training aids: demonstration boards, charts of every description, training films, and most important of all the actual equipment on which the soldier learns while on the job itself.

"To the alert student, the army type of teaching is fun," the sergeant said. "Instructors are to communicate their ideas simply and clearly, and the man who has been trained in the army schools can either use this knowledge to win promotions in the service or to win success more rapidly in a civilian career."

"Visit your local recruiting office today. Get the facts," he advised.

Pay Increase Offered

Detroit, May 28 (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. today offered 130,000 C.I.O. production workers the equivalent of a 15 cent an hour wage increase and simultaneously boosted 20,000 salaried employees 10 per cent. The boost in salaries was limited to those making less than $1,000 monthly and becomes effective June 1, the company said. The offer was worded in such a way as to exclude 3,800 striking foremen as long as they were not covered by a contract.

Hammer Is Elected

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28 (AP)—Karl Rex Hammer of Pittsburgh, 62-year-old food executive and a 33rd degree mason, today was elected as Imperial Potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, succeeding New York State Supreme Court Justice George H. Rowe of Buffalo, N. Y.

Celebrates 105th Anniversary

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, pastor, will celebrate its 105th anniversary on Sunday, June 1, at 11 o'clock. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Paul Andrew Kirsch, D.D., of New York city.

Due to the war Trinity Church was unable to celebrate its 100th anniversary and so is placing special emphasis upon its 105 years of service. During its history it has had only nine pastors. The church records show that over 9,000 baptisms have been performed; 3,000 weddings celebrated and over 5,000 funeral services conducted. During the past World War 147 members served in the armed forces and four were killed in action. The baptized membership of the church is 1,500 people.

The present members of the Church Board are: Fred W. Ahlers, Charles Baxter, Ralph Finigan, Fred Paulus, Howard Kelder, George Zellmer, Alfred Relyea, Emil Wieland, Fred Sabacher, Herman Osmer, Frank Doyle, Sr., and Paul Terpening.

A special anniversary banquet will be held in the church assembly hall on Thursday, June 5, at 6:30 p. m. The banquet committee consists of Howard Kelder, chairman, Alfred Relyea and Fred W. Ahlers.

The choir director of Trinity Church is Mrs. Willard Burke and the church organist is Miss Lucinda Merritt. The church sexton, Henry Krenz, has served for over 18 years.

More Students Arrested

Shanghai, May 28 (AP) — Less than 24 hours after 97 students were released from jail, police arrested 80 others from national Tungchi University as Shanghai's movement before its threatened riotous collegiate clamor for peace nation-wide anti-civil war demonstration continued unabated. Those held included some co-eds. Informal sources said authorities were trying to break up the student strike. Block is used to make some types of unbreakable buttons.

Sing a Song of Smartness!

... a grand old tune that's still popular today—a brand new car that's leading the Style Parade!

OLDSMOBILE SERVICE
KEEP YOUR CAR
"IN TUNE"
Whether it's a smart new Oldsmobile... or the car you're driving till your Oldsmobile comes... it will run better and more economically after an Oldsmobile tune-up.

HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE
*Optional at extra cost.

"What a thrill to take the wheel of a smart new Oldsmobile!"... Sung to the tune of "In My Merry Oldsmobile," these words form a theme song for thousands of owners of new Oldsmobile cars. And who wouldn't feel musical in an automobile like this!... the tune of power its engine hums... the rhythm of its coil-spring ride... the lulling smoothness of its Style-Leader lines!

And the feature that makes this new "Merry Oldsmobile" even more of a popular hit is GM Hydra-Matic Drive—the fully proved, fully automatic drive that shifts gears for you through all four forward speeds—the only drive that eliminates the clutch pedal entirely! No wonder so many people are saying, "It's SMART to go automatic... It's SMART to own an Olds!"

Celebrates 105th Anniversary

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, pastor, will celebrate its 105th anniversary on Sunday, June 1, at 11 o'clock. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Paul Andrew Kirsch, D.D., of New York city.

Due to the war Trinity Church was unable to celebrate its 100th anniversary and so is placing special emphasis upon its 105 years of service. During its history it has had only nine pastors. The church records show that over 9,000 baptisms have been performed; 3,000 weddings celebrated and over 5,000 funeral services conducted. During the past World War 147 members served in the armed forces and four were killed in action. The baptized membership of the church is 1,500 people.

The present members of the Church Board are: Fred W. Ahlers, Charles Baxter, Ralph Finnigan, Fred Paulus, Howard Kelder, George Zellmer, Alfred Relyea, Emil Wieland, Fred Sarbacher, Herman Osmer, Frank Doyle, Sr., and Paul Terpening.

A special anniversary banquet will be held in the church assembly hall on Thursday, June 5, at 6:30 p. m. The banquet committee consists of Howard Kelder, chairman, Alfred Relyea and Fred W. Ahlers.

The choir director of Trinity Church is Mrs. Willard Burke and the church organist is Miss Lucinda Merritt. The church sexton, Henry Krenz, has served for over 18 years.

AWAIT POSITIVE ACTION

At this crucial moment in European history when anti-Communist parties in both France and Italy must decide whether to give in to the Reds or try to oust them, we have the power to exercise moral leadership which might well prove decisive.

The example this republic has set before the world, for a century and a half has been so strong that no government at any time has entirely escaped its influence. The influence has been moral rather than material, for the most part. If we rose to eminence on principles of individual initiative and competition, if our people enjoyed amazing freedom and if this system produced millions of substantial homes, with thriving cities and a healthy, vigorous people, the example could not be concealed. It gave powerful support to republican groups in other lands.

Not until the rise of Marxist ideology has our republican ideology been seriously challenged on a world-wide scale.

Instead of meeting the challenge, our own government has discredited its own ideology on many an occasion in recent years, repeatedly going to Moscow to ask for a decision in matters of interest to the world. By these acts of humility and subordination we gave moral support to the Kremlin, elevating its influence far above the level it deserved or otherwise could have attained.

Now the time is overdue when we must again exercise moral influence in favor of our own ideology. With France daring, momentarily, to throw Communists out of the cabinet and with Italy faced with a showdown, this may prove the decisive hour in world diplomacy of this period.

During the past few weeks we have seen proof of our great moral power in combating Communist aggression. A Turkish official last week pointed out that immediately after Congress agreed to aid Turkey, and before the bill was sent to the White House or a dollar was sent to help, the Soviets stopped their military threats against that country. Thus, the power was moral.

I believe that there is possible a move which at this moment might turn the tide, if taken without equivocation. Here it is: Congress to voice a resolution stating in the bluntest terms that Communism is the vehicle of a foreign power bent on world conquest and that Communists inside our borders are agents of that power and therefore enemies of this government.

We should then follow through to break up Communist organizations here and take the most active agents out of circulation.

Such a resolution would enable our courts to act. As matters stand, Supreme Court decisions have been so contradictory and confusing that the lower courts have no clear precedents for guidance. And the President's own wishes toward Communist question are in serious doubt. He has the power to clean the Reds out of government jobs and two months ago issued a statement that they must be ousted—but they are still in office and he has taken no action.

A resolution adopted by Congress, backed by the President with an order to the Attorney General to take vigorous action against the Reds, would dispel doubt, both at home and abroad, as to where we stand.

The President's double talk has especially hurt the anti-communists of Europe over whose heads the awful threat of the Red Terror hangs like a poison cloud. Those majorities are not yet helpless in most countries, even behind the blackout curtain. But against the sinister and ruthless Terror they dare not risk decisive action against their own Reds unless they see us leading out in our own country.

A forthright stand on our part would leave the Soviets in serious doubt as to how far they could go toward subduing the European majorities without precipitating counter-revolutions morally and economically supported by the strongest nation in the world. Brazil courageously set the pace

As hordes of crickets threaten one of the richest farm areas in Oregon, 8-year-old Sharon Pitzer of Pendleton sweeps up a few of the pests killed on her mother's doorstep. Farmers hope sea gulls, attracted inland by the crickets, might repeat the miracle of 1848 when gulls saved crops of Mormon pioneers in Great Salt Lake Valley, Utah.

Calls for Reinforcements

Calcutta, May 28 (AP)—Gov. Frederick Burrows of Bengal arranged today to have troops in the province reinforced as a precaution against new outbreaks of communal violence next Monday, when the British plan an announcement concerning the method of transferring the government to Indian hands.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture released the first hybrid onion in 1944.

Blood obtained from slaughter houses is used in the preparation of one rare French wine.

ONE MAN LOST HIS FARM, ONE MAN SAVED HIS FARM

THE DIFFERENCE: $2,000 in the Bank

This is an actual case. Two neighbors were about even financially. One owed $14,000 on his farm; the other owed $16,000 but had $2,000 in a savings account.

When the depression came, the first man couldn't meet his payments, lost his farm. The second man, by using some of his reserve, got by, saved his farm.

Another example of why it will pay you to open a savings account at this bank or build up the one you have—to be ready for any emergency.

A two-car collision occurred at the O'Neil street traffic light about 4 o'clock Tuesday, when a 1946 Packard sedan operated by Mrs. Hilda Galletta of 650 Delaware avenue ran into the rear of a Nash coupe owned and operated by Frank Penzato, of R.D. 1, New Paltz, according to a report filed with the police by Mrs. Galletta.

Mrs. Fred Port of 650 Delaware avenue, a passenger in the Galletta car, suffered a bruised knee and elbow and was treated by a physician. The Galletta car was damaged somewhat in the front, while the Nash sustained damages in the rear.

ONE MAN LOST HIS FARM, ONE MAN SAVED HIS FARM

THE DIFFERENCE: $2,000 in the Bank

This is an actual case. Two neighbors were about even financially. One owed $14,000 on his farm; the other owed $16,000 but had $2,000 in a savings account.

When the depression came, the first man couldn't meet his payments, lost his farm. The second man, by using some of his reserve, got by, saved his farm.

Another example of why it will pay you to open a savings account at this bank or build up the one you have—to be ready for any emergency.

Mrs. Charles Hewitt and Mrs. Edmund Wager favored their audiences with organ and piano selections. The fall convention of the Union will be held at Clintondale. A meeting of the newly-organized Plattekill Home Bureau unit was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Albert Terwilliger, when a kitchen conference was in session. Refinishing furniture will be the project demonstrated at a meeting to be held Tuesday, June 10, at Mrs. Terwilliger's home. Newly-elected officers of the unit are chairman, Mrs. George Sisti, Sr.; vice-chairman, Mrs. Leander T. Minard; secretary, Mrs. Beulah Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. James Leetch.

Leander Minard was visited by his cousin last week, the former Beulah Anthony of Michigan, who was a teacher in the Gerow district school, 38 years ago. John Odell was a business visitor in Kingston last week.

Divorce Is Granted

Las Vegas, Nev., May 28 (AP)—Novelist Dorothy Parker had her marital freedom today from writer Alan Campbell. Judge Frank McNamee granted it to her yesterday on her cross complaint to his divorce suit and at the same time approved a property settlement, drawn in New York. Married in Raton, N. M., in 1934, each charged the other with mental cruelty.

Why Newspapers Are Like Women
Because they are thinner than they used to be.
Because they have forms.
Because they are well worth looking over.
Because they are bold face type.
Because they are easy to read.
Because they carry the news wherever they go.
Because they have a great deal of influence.
Because they are not afraid to speak their minds.
Because if they know anything they usually tell it.
Because they always have the last word.
Because back numbers are not in demand.
Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbor's.

Aunt Minnie was taking her first trip on a train. When the conductor came through the car and called for tickets, Auntie readily gave up hers. A few minutes later the train boy, coming through, called "Chewing gum." "Never," cried Aunt Minnie, bravely. "You can take my ticket, but not my gum."

Why Newspapers Are Like Women
 Because they are thinner than they used to be.
 Because they have forms.
 Because they are well worth looking over.
 Because they are bold face type.
 Because they are easy to read.
 Because they carry the news wherever they go.
 Because they have a great deal of influence.
 Because they are not afraid to speak their minds.
 Because if they know anything they usually tell it.
 Because they always have the last word.
 Because back numbers are not in demand.
 Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbor's.

Aunt Minnie was taking her first trip on a train. When the conductor came through the car and called for tickets, Auntie readily gave up hers. A few minutes later the train boy, coming through, called "Chewing gum." "Never," cried Aunt Minnie, bravely. "You can take my ticket, but not my gum."

Our idea of a man with a "pull" is our dentist.
 Mother—Who is that new young man who is calling on you?
 Daughter—He is practicing to be a magician.
 Mother—Is he doing very well at it?
 Daughter—Very good. Often he takes out a quarter and makes brother Johnnie disappear completely.

Judge—What's the charge, officer?
 Officer—He took an apple and two bananas from in front of a grocery store, your honor.
 Judge—Sixty days for impersonating an officer.

The only time some people can walk is when they follow a golf ball.

"What caused the explosion at your house?"
 "Powder on my coat sleeve."

Bread Can Be Served Many Ways

By GAYNOR MADDON
NEA Staff Writer

Between now and early in July, when the new wheat crop comes in, bread may be scarce in certain communities. So use every scrap.

Buttercrusts
To make Buttercrusts, trim crusts from slices of enriched white bread. Butter both sides of each slice lightly. Then press each slice into a muffin cup and toast in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until the tops are golden brown. Fill with creamed fish, chicken-liver or other creamy mixture. Buttercrusts may be made in advance and re-heated just before serving.

Creamed Fish
(Serves 5-6)
Three tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups milk, 1½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoon lemon juice, dash cayenne, 1½ teaspoon paprika, ¼ cup cooked shredded fish.

Melt butter or margarine in pan. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add salt, lemon juice, cayenne, paprika and fish. Heat thoroughly and serve in hot Buttercrusts.

Toasted Bread Sticks
Slices enriched bread. Leave crusts on bread. Cut

Longer Session
Hartford, Conn., May 28 (AP)—Intensions of Republican leaders to conclude the current session of the Connecticut General Assembly tomorrow have encountered resistance. This developed late yesterday after the House passed the controversial three per cent sales tax measure, 150 to 103, and the Senate voted adjournment until this morning.

Alligator tail is considered one of the best foods by Negroes of the South.

bread into strips ¾ inch thick on all sides. Toast on a cookie sheet in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Turn them so they will be golden brown on all sides.

French Oven Toast
(Serves 6—2 slices per serving)
Two eggs beaten, 1½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon almond extract, 12 slices enriched bread.

Combine beaten eggs, salt, sugar, milk and almond extract. Dip sliced bread into mixture. Place slices on a well-greased cookie sheet and brown in a hot oven (500 degrees F.). Turn the toast over after 10 minutes and brown on the other side. Serve with honey, butter, maple syrup or strawberry jam. Note: This toast may be re-heated satisfactorily.

TOMORROW'S MENU
BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas, French oven toast, strawberry jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted peanut butter and chopped bacon sandwiches, fresh tomatoes, pickles, cookies tea, milk.

DINNER: Spicy tomato juice, creamed fish, chicken or eggs in Buttercrusts, buttered peas, lettuce, Thousand Island dressing, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, cherry cobbler, coffee, milk.

King Circus Will Play
At Walker Lot June 20

King Brothers three ring circus will show at Walker's lot just across the Washington avenue viaduct on Friday, June 20, with an afternoon show at 2 and an evening show at 8 o'clock. The circus will come under auspices of the Ulster County Motorcycle Club and the big menagerie will be open for inspection an hour before each show. King Brothers circus travels by motor convey and carries 23 tents including the "big top." There are 600 artists, performers and assistants.

A "giant double" menagerie with animals from five continents is one of the features of the big show. Fun for old and young is provided by a troupe of 20 clowns and the circus carries its own band of 50 musicians.

The "advance man" for King Brothers circus was in town Tuesday making final arrangements for the show on June 20.

Fertel Reports Boy Ran Into Side of His Truck
George Playford, an eight-year-old youngster who lives at 58 Ann street, ran into the side of a 1946 Chevrolet sedan delivery truck operated by Harry Fertel, of 95 West Pleasant street, about 2:20 p. m. Tuesday. Mr. Fertel reported to the police yesterday.

Fertel said he was proceeding south on Ann street when the youngster dashed from the curb into the side of his vehicle. The boy received a bruised face but his parents refused to have him taken to a hospital or have a doctor see him, Fertel reported.

Recommends Recount
Kansas City, May 28 (AP)—A grand jury report today recommended a "complete recount of all ballots" in the Missouri Fifth District congressional primary race of last August in which Roger C. Slaughter lost the Democratic nomination to James Asstall. Asstall, later defeated in the general election by Republican Albert L. Reeves, was President Truman's choice for the nomination. The Jackson county grand jury said "it is our belief" that a fraudulent miscount of votes deprived Slaughter of the nomination. The jury has indicted 78 persons for vote fraud.

New Dodger First Sacker Bats Club to 7-6 Win Over Nazareth

Wiley Williams Unleashes Double, Triple in Debut

The long-ball hitter Kingston Dodger fans have been hearing about was unveiled with commendable results last night at municipal stadium and there are approximately 650 witnesses who will tell you that Wiley Williams, Dodger first sacker, late of Texas, can hit that apple a country mile.

Mr. Williams, who was flown to Kingston last week for a specific purpose, did just that by pelacking two horrendous blasts that drove in four runs and were chiefly instrumental in Kingston's 7 to 6 victory over the hard-fighting Nazareth Tigers who were making their first appearance of the season here.

The victory came as a welcome tonic after the Nyack debacle, kept Kingston on top of the North Atlantic League scramble and enabled "Sugar" Scherger's tossers to maintain an unblemished record at home — 5 wins and one tie.

Lefty Ken Braun achieved the pitching victory although he needed help from Ray Cutter, the "Rubber Man" who had worked a full game the night before in Nyack.

Kingston had to come from behind to cop this one. A two-run pinch triple by Staziak punched a 4-2 Dodger margin in the sixth and forced the Schergerites to push across single tallies in the sixth, seventh and eighth to nail down the victory.

Williams Clouds Triple
The fans got their first taste of Williams' power in the third when he unloaded a triple to the 389-foot marker in deep left field scoring Rosa and Lane ahead of him. Subsequent singles by Jim Williams and Tom Corrigan accounted for two more runs and a 4-2 Dodger budge.

Williams, a powerfully built right-hander who squares off at the plate like Ernie Lombardi, exploded again in the seventh with a tremendous blast to the base of the 390-foot marker in left center. Jim Williams promptly rode him home with a single to center.

Tigers Score Early
Nazareth scored twice with two out in the first and would have more but for two brilliant fielding plays. Jim Williams, subbing at second for the ailing Manager Scherger, raced into short right center for a stunning catch of Godfrey's pop fly for the second out and Braun's trouble started.

Komiserek walked and Mueller, Miller and Christie followed with successive singles for two runs. Gutshall, seventh man up in the frame, rifled a terrific blast to deep center where Jerry Orlanman made one of the fine catches of the season.

Braun permitted only one hit in the next four stanzas but the

K.A.A. Baseball School Tonight

The fourth weekly school sponsored by the Kingston Athletic Association will be held tonight at the Y.M.C.A. starting at 7:30 o'clock. Tonight's instruction will be for second basemen.

Judge Bernard Culliton, former member of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will again conduct the class. Although the main emphasis will be stressed on second sacker tonight, a cordial invitation is extended to all youngsters.

Last week's class for first basemen attracted 75 interested players, the best turnout yet.

Tigers renewed acquaintances with his stuff in the sixth. Miller doubled to right with one out and scored on Christie's single. Gutshall singled and was forced at second by Rickard.

Christie going to third. Manager Mueller, in a moment of inspiration inserted Staziak as a pinch hitter for pitcher DeLeran and the former responded with a resounding triple over Orlanman's head in center on a 3-2 pitch. Nazareth's final marker was inconsequential in the ninth but was lifted after yielding two walks and a single and Cutter came in to snuff the threat.

Rosa Triples
Knobby Rosa tripled in Kerr who had walked with the tying run in the sixth but was cut down at the plate trying to steal home. The Williams boys delivered a one-two punch in the seventh, via Wiley's double and Jim's single and Kingston led 6-5. The gravity marker in the eighth was the result of a walk to Kerr and Rosa's single to right center.

Po'keepsie Drubs Kingston Again 7 to 1

OF BASEBALL MEMORABILIA: John McCordle and nearly 25 players who were identified with various editions of his Kingston All Stars, broke bread and reminisced at Marge and Tom's a few nights ago. The popular manager who gained enduring fame by his uncanny ability to lure Saugerties into a ball game every other week or so, said it would be an annual affair. For the men who were proud to be associated with "Mac" McCordle through the years, it will be a must so long as they can drag their weary bodies around.

It was a heterogeneous collection of players whose names have highlighted baseball boxscores in Kingston since 1920. It seemed incredible as you looked over the gathering that some of those present had been active 27 years ago. But they were there: Bill Schwab, who believed in giving the fans a show every time he crept under a fly ball; Joseph "Kid" Moore, one of the greatest ball hawks in local history; Judge Bernard "Bud" Culliton who would rather be remembered as a Kingston Colonial ace than a Pittsburgh Pirate; strong man and Mutt Cahill, who dispenses justice in city hall. Then came the later generation: Tom Davitt, whom the Colonials once regarded as an outfielder, Joe Hoffman, Pres Knight, Charlie Lay, Jimmy Merritt, Hank Cragan, the Bruhn brothers, Lou and Fritz, a connoisseur of the best in ales.

Tommy Davitt, whose talents spread in many directions, notably as a master of ceremonies regaled his cronies until Bill Schwab got up and bluntly remarked that he knew why vaudeville had died. But Tommy isn't rattled so easily and before the speech making was concluded he had the one-time long-ball hitters clutching at their slightly wrinkled sides. The peppery insurance agent who spent his declining years admonishing Eddie Burvick to "stay in the park" created quite a stir when he presented "Junior" Lay with a miniature tennis racket. Since "Junior" is about to resume his baseball career in the City League, the presentation may or may not have had some significance.

Top man of the four-star show was the honorable District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, who was billed as principal speaker, but turned out to be a poet laureate who could put Grandma Rice and Franklin P. Adams to shame. In a moment of questionable sanity, the D.A. composed a doggerel in which not a single soul escaped the barbs and wit of his nimble brain. It was a classic example of what happens when a lawyer gets an idea at 2 in the morning and dashes downstairs for something more academic than a mere riddle on the ice box. But then when you looked over the characters Lou had at his disposal for script material, you had to admit that in this case inspiration was its own reward.

These affairs have their salutary sides, too. For instance, it effected a reconciliation between Bob "Ginns" Tierney and the venerable umpire, George Cragan, of Wilbur, Cragan and Tierney have been feuding for years over an alleged bad third strike the umpire is supposed to have called on Bob many years ago. The solution was simple. Cragan leaned over to Tierney and said: "You must have been wrong. Bob, I couldn't have called a third strike on you. You always went down swinging."

There were others there, Jimmy Martin, a southpaw of some renown, looked haggard and hearty, a far cry from Fred Davitt's venerable umpire, who contracted pneumonia when the Savitt Gens of Hartford sent whistling line drives past him in Bulkeley Stadium less than a decade ago. We acrosted Jim, a second looney, at Camp Lee, Virginia, but couldn't throw him a highball. We were loaded down with bottles of booze. . . . Carl "Dutch" Glaser, then whom there was never a smoother infielder or tougher man to foot at the plate, spoke briefly. . . . Carl is the proud father of two fine youngsters, who are carrying on the baseball tradition.

Others were missing, to, and they were big names in their day—Jack Robins, Hank Smedes, Harold Johnson, Freddie Stoudt and Marty Carr. As they looked down from their baseball Valhalla and heard all the verbal basehits they must have smiled benignly and said to each other: "It wasn't like that in the old days."

"Mac" McCordle was, of course, the proudest man in the house. These were his boys, through days of poeete guarantees and incessant trips to Saugerties. We've never met a squarer shooter than John McCordle in baseball. . . . If the guarantee was ten bucks, it was split 10 ways. . . . Well, maybe some times Jimmy Merritt got an extra quarter for a "baroney" sandwich and "Dutch" Glaser an extra quart of oil for a car that knocked eternally.

Ed Williams Holds Maroons to Four Hits on Tuesday

Kingston High School holds down first place in the DUSO Baseball League but that's another story especially when the Maroon nine runs up against Coach Sam Kalloch's Blue Raiders from Poughkeepsie. Holding Kingston's first place team in utter disregard, the Kallochmen proceeded to belt the Maroon around again Tuesday afternoon, this time by a 7 to 1 count.

Play Port Thursday
Coach Will Burke's league leading DUSO club will attempt to add another notch on its bid for the title Thursday afternoon when it travels to Port Jervis to meet the Tri-Staters. Kingston nipped Port in the first outing by 4 to 2 behind Clark Mullins. Mullins is slated to toe the slab again Thursday.

Len Lessick, Dick Little and Danny Brown divided the hurling chores for the ill-fated Maroons Tuesday. Their choice offerings were pickled for nine hits by Poughkeepsie's batsmen. Ed Williams was Kalloch's selection again and he limited the losers to four hits—two by Mike Rienzo and a pair by Chris Lay.

Poughkeepsie barged out with a 3 to 0 lead in the first four frames when Kingston's defense buckled. Four costly errors were charged up to the Maroons—two by Rienzo and two others by Ken Lowe.

Kingston got its lone tally in the fourth to make it anybody's ball game but Poughkeepsie rammed back in the bottom half of the sixth with a cluster of four runs on four hits which decided the outcome right then and there.

Besides Williams' masterful ball game on the mound, the Bridge City warriors also copped the extra-base hitting glory as Donahue laced out a pair of doubles, Paroli bashed a sizzling triple and Finn belted a homer.

It was Williams' second straight over Kingston this season. He handcuffed Kingston May 13 by 10 to 4 giving up seven base knocks.

Len Lessick, Dick Little and Danny Brown divided the hurling chores for the ill-fated Maroons Tuesday. Their choice offerings were picked for nine hits by Poughkeepsie's batsmen. Ed Williams was Kalloch's selection again and he limited the losers to four hits—two by Mike Rienzo and a pair by Chris Lay.

Poughkeepsie barged out with a 3 to 0 lead in the first four frames when Kingston's defense buckled. Four costly errors were charged up to the Maroons—two by Rienzo and two others by Ken Lowe.

Kingston got its lone tally in the fourth to make it anybody's ball game but Poughkeepsie rammed back in the bottom half of the sixth with a cluster of four runs on four hits which decided the outcome right then and there.

Besides Williams' masterful ball game on the mound, the Bridge City warriors also copped the extra-base hitting glory as Donahue laced out a pair of doubles, Paroli bashed a sizzling triple and Finn belted a homer.

It was Williams' second straight over Kingston this season. He handcuffed Kingston May 13 by 10 to 4 giving up seven base knocks.

Louis Says He Will End Career in 1948

Salt Lake City, May 28 (AP)—Joe Louis says that 1948 will be his last year of boxing.

The heavyweight champion made the statement yesterday during a discussion of why he has turned down some fight offers recently.

He said there isn't a competitor anywhere right now that will draw a big time gate, but he believes an able fighter will develop by 1948 to challenge his title.

"But whether there is or not," he added, "I'm not going beyond 1948. That's my last year of boxing."

Johnny Papke, Ace Pro Trainer, to Attend Bouts

To Coach Wilkerson in Decker Match; First Fight to Start 9:30 P. M.

Chuck Wilkerson, Cleveland bantamweight star, who gave Boston's Ernie Martin a boxing lesson here last winter, will be accompanied by his famous trainer, Johnny Papke, when he opposes George "Babyface" Decker in B'nai B'rith's main bout at the municipal auditorium, Thursday night.

It was announced today by Dr. Saul Goldfarb, boxing chairman for the organization, that the bouts would start at 9:30 instead of the usual time to permit night shoppers and local merchants to attend the show.

Papke, who operates a large gymnasium in Cleveland, is a former middleweight contender, and now acts as trainer for Jimmy Ewing, 175-pound professional, and the late Jackie Graves, the midwest's candidate for the featherweight title.

"Wilkerson is one of my best little battlers," Papke said when he announced he'd accompany him to Kingston. "I heard all about that trouncing he gave New England Champion Martineau and the fine auditorium in which the scrap was held. I want to see him against George Decker and get a look at that fight club which my boys call the best."

All of the Cleveland boxers that have appeared in Kingston, including Paul Simpson, a heavy-weight with very bright prospects, train at Papke's.

According to Chick Tovinelli, Decker's trainer, George is ready for Wilkerson, and hopes to put up the same sort of action he displayed in those sensational matches with Carmine Virgilio, which had capacity houses cheering all the way.

Decker, who is in service, is home on a furlough from the army, not the navy as previously announced. He's a private first class in the Air Corps.

Other five rounders on tomorrow's bill:

Tony Ponticello, Gloversville middleweight vs. George Kolarich, Bohemian belter, from Cleveland.

Jimmy Brightwell, Newburgh middleweight vs. Ruby Davis, Cleveland.

Willie Stevens, 138, Cleveland vs. Johnny Rowland, Albany, winner of his last 27 bouts.

The challenge match between Dave Brandon and Tommy "Tiger" Davis was cancelled today because of a cut Brandon suffered over his eye in training. Another opponent is being sought for Davis. In the event one can't be found, another bout will be substituted.

Two three-rounders will round out the fight program.

Subways, Village Rest Hold Margin in Softball Loop

The two league-leading City Softball League teams—Subway No. 1 and Village Rest—held onto the top position after Monday's slate of games on local softball diamonds. The Subway moshers cracked out a 5 to 3 win over the Bernard Oilers while the Village Rest triumphed Subway No. 2 by 28 to 8. Both of these clubs have won three in a row.

Frank's Sport Shop, overcoming a 6 to 2 deficit, fought back gamely in another loop tilt by scoring five runs in the last half of the seventh to nip the Central Lunch, 7-6. The win shoved Frank's in a tie for first with two wins in as many games.

Other league results found B'nai B'rith defeating Works by 6 to 3 and Jacobsons mauling Hercules to the tune of 10-7.

Following are the standings to date:

	W	L	Pct.
Subway No. 1	3	0	1.000
Village Rest	3	0	1.000
Frank's Sport	2	0	1.000
B'nai B'rith	2	1	.667

Holmes Is Appointed

Albany, N. Y., May 28 (AP)—Roscoe C. Holmes of Orchard Park was appointed by Governor Dewey today to the State Harness Racing Commission to fill the unexpired term of the late Jacob C. Newton of Hamburg. Holmes will serve until March, 1950, on the three-member commission which regulates harness racing in the state. Normal appointments are for six years. There is no compensation other than actual expenses. Other members are Chairman Benjamin W. Downing of Manhattan and Henry M. James of Hudson.

Jones Dairy, Larry Weishaupt Star in State Bowling Meet

Ferraro's 646, Petersen's 257 Top Classic Loop

The Jones Dairy Specials rolled 2,717 to carve a slice of the New York state bowling tournament prize melon over the week-end in Syracuse. Larry Weishaupt battered a 1,753 all-events and 579 singles to win money in two other brackets. Jake's Gyll was out of the money with 2,572.

Weishaupt reeled off thirty consecutive closed frames for a 637 triple in the team event on games of 199, 206 and 232. The Dairy men posted scores of 879, 881 and 957. Other scores were John MacLellan 482, John Sangi 555, John Swint 504 and Ad Jones 539.

Weishaupt's all-events string consisted of 637 in the team, 537 doubles and 579 singles to make him the top all-events from Kingston in the 1947 tournament. There was only desultory firing in the singles, with a 1,050 by George Robinson and Fred Rice setting the pace. Weishaupt was the only man to crash the prize list in the singles.

Second Line Tiger Hurlers Prove No Breather for Foes

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
American League batsmen were mourning "Tiger stay away from my door," today—and with good reason.

The Detroit Tigers' pitching has simply been poison to enemy batters this season. Rival managers were hopeful that once they got by the big four consisting of Hal Newhouse, Dizzy Trout, Virgil Trucks and Freddy Hutchinson, they might face a breather in one of the so-called second line hurlers. But the "second stringers" have proven to be tougher to beat than the regulars.

With the big four working as smooth as silk during the first month of the campaign, Manager Steve O'Neill did not even bother to call upon his secondary. But when Trucks took sick and Newhouse showed that he needed more rest, Hal White, Al Benton and Stubby Overmire were beckoned.

Benton whipped the Indians 4-2 yesterday. His triumph was important inasmuch as it came over the great Bobby Feller and induced the Tigers' first-place lead in the American League to four full games over the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. After Benton had allowed three hits and one run in seven innings, O'Neill took no chances and relieved with Newhouse.

Cubs in First
The Chicago Cubs took over first place in the National League last night when they inflicted the first night defeat of the season on the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-3 while the New York Giants were bowing to Brooklyn at the Polo Grounds, 7-3. The Cub victory, together with the Giant defeat, put Chicago a half game up on the New York Giants who lead the third place Dodgers by four percentage points.

Ralph Branca, a native New Yorker, had one of his good nights, holding the Giants to seven hits and striking out 10, before a crowd of 51,780 fans, largest ever to witness a National League night game. The big blow of the game was Pee Wee Reese's three-run homer. Johnny Mize hit his 13th home run.

After three failures, Johnny Sain finally gained his fourth victory of the season for Boston as the Braves took a 7-3 decision from the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game at Boston.

Glen Russell's first home run of the season with two mates aboard enabled the Boston Red Sox to snap a four game losing streak and stop the Philadelphia Athletics' run of eight game victories at seven. The homer gave the Sox a 4-2 triumph at Philadelphia.

Louis Says He Will End Career in 1948

Salt Lake City, May 28 (AP)—Joe Louis says that 1948 will be his last year of boxing.

The heavyweight champion made the statement yesterday during a discussion of why he has turned down some fight offers recently.

He said there isn't a competitor anywhere right now that will draw a big time gate, but he believes an able fighter will develop by 1948 to challenge his title.

"But whether there is or not," he added, "I'm not going beyond 1948. That's my last year of boxing."

Johnny Papke, Ace Pro Trainer, to Attend Bouts

To Coach Wilkerson in Decker Match; First Fight to Start 9:30 P. M.

Chuck Wilkerson, Cleveland bantamweight star, who gave Boston's Ernie Martineau a boxing lesson here last winter, will be accompanied by his famous trainer, Johnny Papke, when he opposes George "Babyface" Decker in B'nai Brith's main bout at the municipal auditorium, Thursday night.

It was announced today by Dr. Saul Goldfarb, boxing chairman for the organization, that the bouts would start at 9:30 instead of the usual time to permit night shoppers and local merchants to attend the show.

Papke, who operates a large gymnasium in Cleveland, is a former middleweight contender, and now acts as trainer for Jimmy Binns, 175-pound professional luminary and Jackie Graves, the midwest's candidate for the featherweight title.

"Wilkerson is one of my best little battlers," Papke said when he announced he'd accompany him to Kingston. "I heard all about that trimming he gave New England Champion Martineau and the fine auditorium in which the scrap was held. I want to see him look at that fight club which my boys call the best."

All of the Cleveland boxers that have appeared in Kingston, including Paul Simpson, a heavyweight with very bright prospects, train at Papke's.

According to Chick Iovinelli, Decker's trainer, Chicago is ready for Wilkerson, and hopes to put up the same sort of action he displayed in those sensational matches with Carmine Virgilio, which had capacity houses cheering all the way.

Decker, who is in service, is home on furlough from the army, but the navy is previously announced. He's a private first class in the Air Corps.

Other five rounders on tomorrow's bill: Tony Ponticello, Gloversville middleweight vs. George Kolari, Bohemian better, from Cleveland.

Jimmy Brightwell, Newburgh middleweight vs. Ruby Davis, Cleveland.

Willie Stevens, 138, Cleveland vs. Johnny Rowland, Albany, winner of his last 27 bouts.

The challenge match between Dave Brandon and Tommy "Tiger" Davis was cancelled today because of a cut Brandon suffered over his eye in training. Another opponent is being sought for Davis. In the event one can't be found, another bout will be substituted.

Two three-rounders will round out the fistie program.

Subways, Village Rest Hold Margin in Softball Loop

The two league-leading City Softball League teams—Subway No. 1 and Village Rest—held onto the top position after Monday's slate of games on local softball diamonds. The Subway muffers suffered over a 5 to 3 win over the Berardi Oilers while the Village Rest pummeled Subway No. 2 by 28 to 8. Both of these clubs have won three in a row.

Frank's Sport Shop, overcoming a 6 to 2 deficit, fought back gamely in another loop tilt by scoring five runs in the last half of the seventh to nip the Central Lunch, 7-6. The win shoved Frank's in a tie for first with two wins in as many games.

Jones Dairy, Larry Weishaupt Star in State Bowling Meet

Ferraro's 646, Petersen's 257 Top Classic Loop

Johnny Ferraro, bad arm and all, found the Central Recreation mineralistic a soothing tonic for what ails him Monday night.

It was announced today by Dr. Saul Goldfarb, boxing chairman for the organization, that the bouts would start at 9:30 instead of the usual time to permit night shoppers and local merchants to attend the show.

Ferraro's string of 225-210-211 failed to save his Hotel Ulster from a two-game loss to WKNY. Bob Hanley, Hotel Ulster leader, knocked off his third consecutive 600, with 622 on 236-182-204. Fred Rice's 217-592 and Cliff Quick's 226 led WKNY.

Jones Dairy Specials rolled 2,717 to carve a slice of the New York state bowling tournament prize melon over the week-end in Syracuse. Larry Weishaupt bated a 1,753 all-events and 579 singles to win money in two other brackets. Jake's Grill was out of the money with 2,572.

Weishaupt reeled off thirty consecutive closed frames for a 637 triple in the team event on games of 199, 206 and 232. The Dairyman posted scores of 879, 881 and 957. Other scores were John MacLellan 482, John Sangi 555, John Swint 504 and Ad Jones 539.

Weishaupt's all-events string consisted of 637 in the team, 537 doubles and 579 singles to make him the top all-events man in Kingston in the 1947 tournament.

There was only desultory firing in the singles, with a 1,050 by George Robinson and Fred Rice setting the pace. Weishaupt was the only man to crash the prize list in the singles.
